ON THE EDGE OF MEMORIES

What will you remember most about your time spent at Lehigh? The numerous experiences that you shared with friends and classmates will continue to be part of your life for years to come. These memories center around events such as Lehigh/Lafayette, Tailgates, Halloween, Greek Week, Spring Break, Study Abroad, and the International Bazaar. Each of these events are made special by the students, faculty, alumni and parents who unite in a show of school spirit and pride. Everywhere you turn, you are on the edge of a new memory waiting to be made. In the future, as alumni, you will always have the opportunity to return to Lehigh and share in these good times once again.

INTERNATIONAL BAZAAR

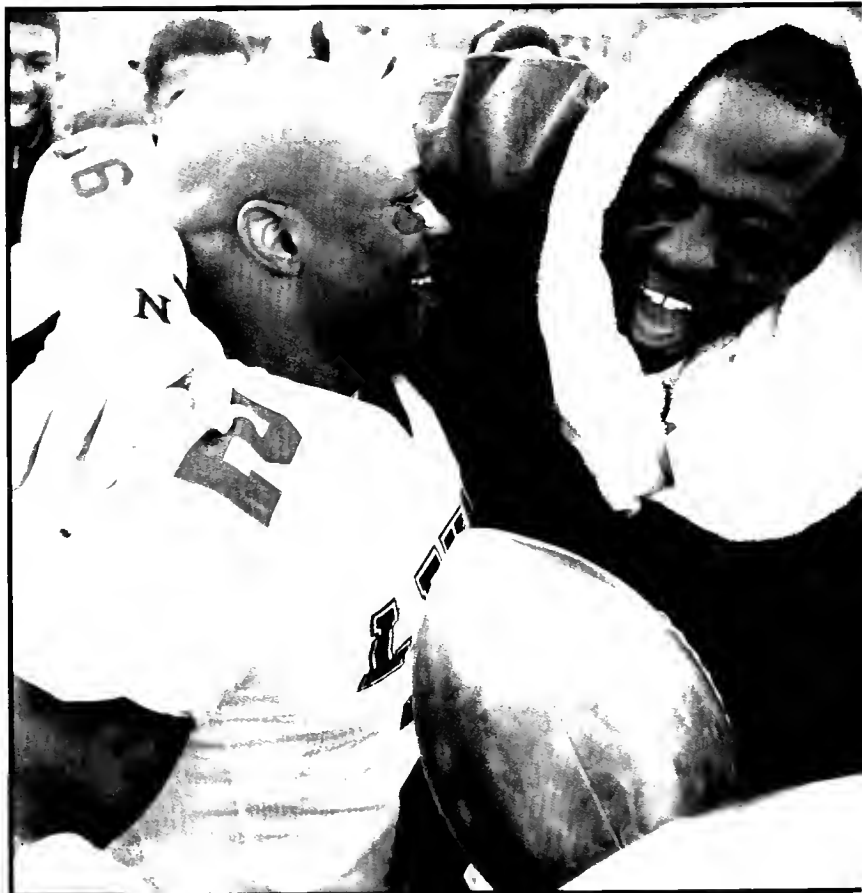

On April 25, the International Bazaar was held on campus. Each year, a diverse group of people from several nationalities gather to celebrate their different cultural traditions. The event seeks to promote diversity in the Lehigh community. Students, faculty and alumni, as well as members of the Bethlehem community, gather together to enjoy food, dance and song from all over the world. A fashion show, in which students wore the traditional dress of their heritage, was held. The flags of many nations were displayed near the courtyard where the dancers performed. Tables of food and arts and crafts were set-up for the crowd to enjoy. The event culminated with a group dance led by all the participants in the bazaar. This year the sunny weather helped make the bazaar a complete success!

FOOTBALL TRIBUTE

Lehigh finished its best season ever by crushing archrival Lafayette to win the 1998 Patriot League Championship. Capping off the season was a trip to the NCAA Division I-AA Playoffs where the team beat Richmond before narrowly losing to UMass. According to Phil Stambaugh, Lehigh's quarterback, the successful season can be attributed to one thing -- chemistry. "This team had been the closest of the three teams I've played on. . . The better the team gets along the better the outcome." The strength of Lehigh's team was shown as they came together game after game to end the regular season undefeated.

SUNDAZE

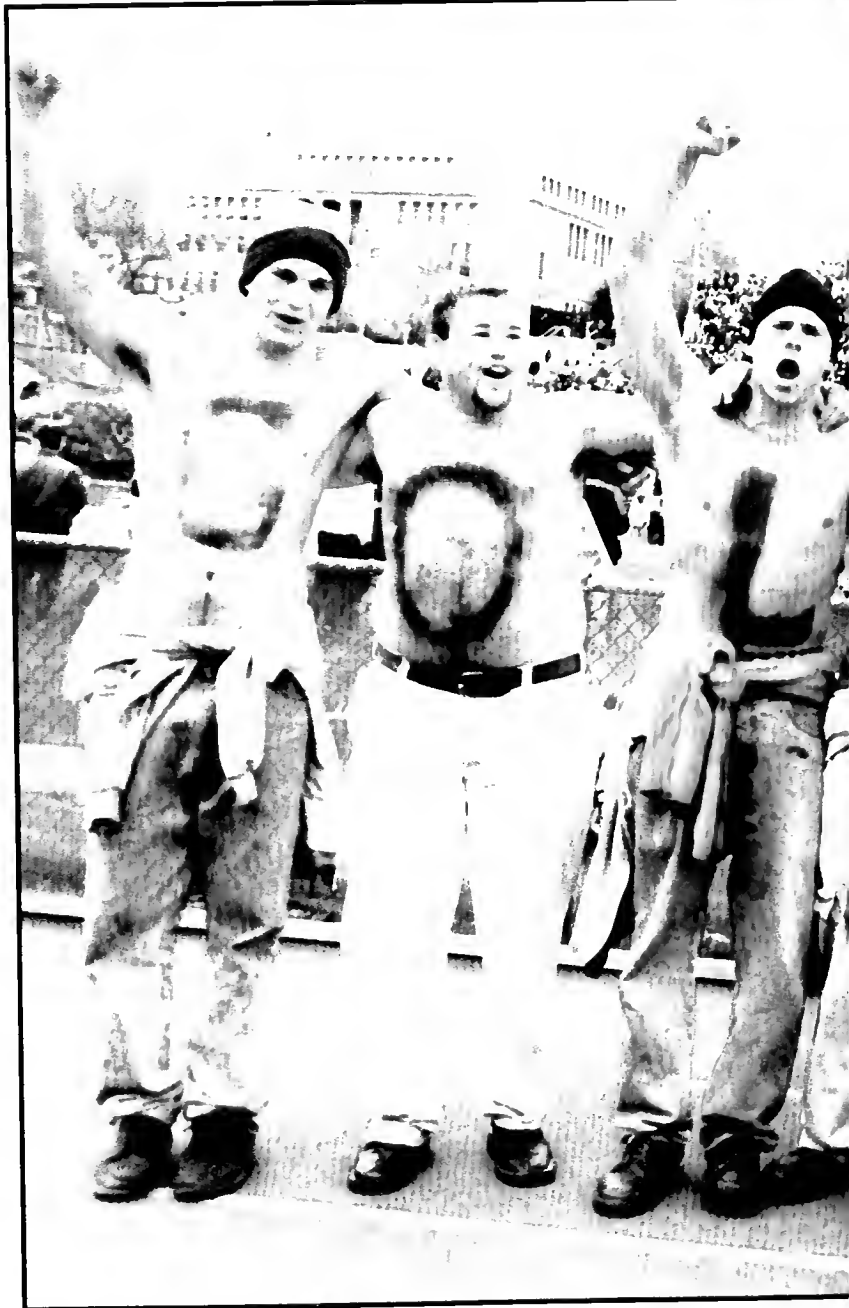

Sundaze, University Productions' annual music festival, took place on Saturday, April 24 at Sayre Field. The event drew a near record crowd and helped end Greek Week on a good note. Several musical groups, including Shaggy and his entourage, Agent Porridge, moe. and (e:)verything performed throughout the day. Local vendors sold food to the large audience. Craft tables and games were provided for enjoyment. University Productions gave out free T-shirts to the first 300 people to enter the gates. Other prizes were thrown from the stage into the crowd. The entire day allowed students to relax and enjoy themselves before the stress of finals set in.

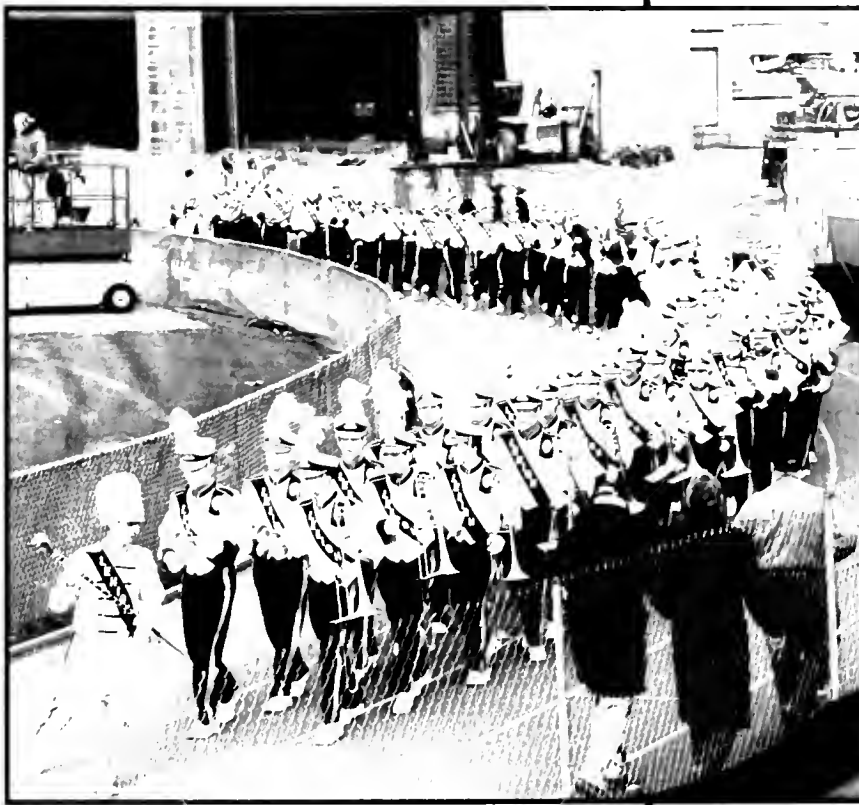

LEHIGH- LAFAYETTE

For the 134th time in school history Lehigh met rival Lafayette.

The festivities started with a bonfire on Thursday night at Goodman Campus. School spirit was even more evident on game day when hundreds of Lehigh students showed up to support their team. One Lehigh fan even decorated his car and drove through the streets before the game yelling "Lehigh Rules!" During the game the Marching 97 and the Lehigh Cheerleaders led the crowd in fight songs and cheers to support the team. At the end of the game, the crowd celebrated as Lehigh won 31-7, beating Lafayette for the fourth straight year.

GREEK WEEK

Greek Week is a yearly event that celebrates Greek life here at Lehigh. Alpha Omicron Pi sponsored their traditional pre-Greek Week event, Mr. Lehigh. The week was kicked off with Opening Ceremonies on Monday April 19th which included the annual banner contest. Other events included Alpha Chi Rho's gladiators, Pi Kappa Alpha's annual Dream Girl contest and Sigma Nu's dance competition. Kappa Sig hosted a date auction and Phi Sigma Kappa planned Grand Prix. Not all of the events went off as scheduled this year due to inclement weather. One of the yearly favorites, "Sammy Bedraces," was canceled due to rain. The entire week and all of its events help to foster lasting memories for all who participated.

COMMUNITY INTERACTION

Community Interaction Day took place on Saturday, April 17th. The day's events were arranged by Alpha Phi Omega in cooperation with the City of Bethlehem and the Public Works Department. Other Lehigh involvement came from sororities, fraternities, students, faculty and staff who volunteered to help clean up the surrounding community. Such jobs as raking leaves, picking up trash on highway ramps, and digging took place. Several children and adults from the community volunteered their time as well. The day's events were successful because they brought students and the community together to help make Bethlehem a little brighter!

COMMUNITY SERVICE

Students volunteer their time and talents throughout the year to benefit the community. They participate in many university and greek sponsored programs. Examples include Kappa Alpha Theta's work with the Girls Incorporated Program and the Coach Program, which ran a Bowling Tournament. In addition, students volunteered on-campus with peer tutoring programs. The Community Service Desk coordinated programs such as America Reads and Alternative Spring Break, where students built homes for Habitat for Humanity. All student volunteers gave countless hours to benefit many people from the surrounding community and within university.

INAUGURATION

On Friday, April 9th, President Gregory C. Farrington was inaugurated as the 12th president of Lehigh University. President Farrington's inauguration came after the interim presidency of William Hittinger, which had followed the fifteen-year presidency of Dr. Peter Likins. President Farrington came to Lehigh after working as the University of Pennsylvania's Dean of the School of Engineering and Applied Science. There were several activities to celebrate the inauguration. One event was swing dancing to The Vince Pettinelli Band. The Ulrich Student Center was transformed into a jazz club featuring a live band. Rev Sol played rock and roll music in the courtyard outside of Rauch Business Center where several guests danced the night away. There were also several special banquets for all students, faculty, staff, alumni and guests around campus.

SPRING BREAK

Every year hundreds of Lehigh students take advantage of Spring Break to venture to warmer places. It's a time to get away from school, to relax and have some fun with friends. Spring Break signals the beginning of tanning season for the year. There's no better way to catch everyone's attention than to come back bronze, or sunburnt for that matter. Although trips to a tropical paradise seem to be most popular, several students seek out exotic locations to explore over the week.

ZOELLNER GALA

The second annual Zoellner Gala was held on Friday night, April 30th. As part of the Center's fundraising efforts, tickets were sold to the exclusive engagement which featured the MET Orchestra. The MET's appearance was special because it was their only United States engagement prior to their European tour. A few students were lucky enough to be invited as guests, while the majority of those who attended were alumni, faculty, and local patrons.

ZOELLNER EVENTS

Many students took center stage in Zoellner this year and showcased their talents. They performed in plays such as A View From the Bridge and Curse of the Starving Class. Other students displayed their musical talents both on stage and as part of the orchestra in the performance of A Little Night Music. All performances were a huge success thanks to the hundreds of hours dedicated to rehearsing lines and staging. Credit should be given to not just the actors and actresses, but also to the many people behind the scenes who work just as hard. These people include the directors, stage hands, painters and the countless others who contributed to a successful year on the Zoellner stage. Everyone involved makes sure that no matter what may happen "the show must go on".

OUTDOOR ADVENTURE

On August 19, I arrived here at Lehigh to go backpacking with other new freshmen. Upon arrival at the Delaware River Gap section of the Appalachian trail, we played many icebreaker type games to get to know each other better.

The next day, after a hot day of hiking, we set up camp near a cool lake and got to swim before dinner. We were told to hang bear bags that night because we were in a particularly bear infested sight. Most people complied, but a few items were left down. The next morning, I awoke to the sound of scratching. My new friend peered out of the tent just in time to see a mother bear carry off his pack, trying to get to the power bars that he had forgotten to put in the bear bags. It was a huge rush to see a bear no more than 10 feet from the tent and have no way of escaping.

I think the best thing about this trip was the friends I made along the way. I found the outdoor adventure trip to be very fun and enriching.

STUDY ABROAD

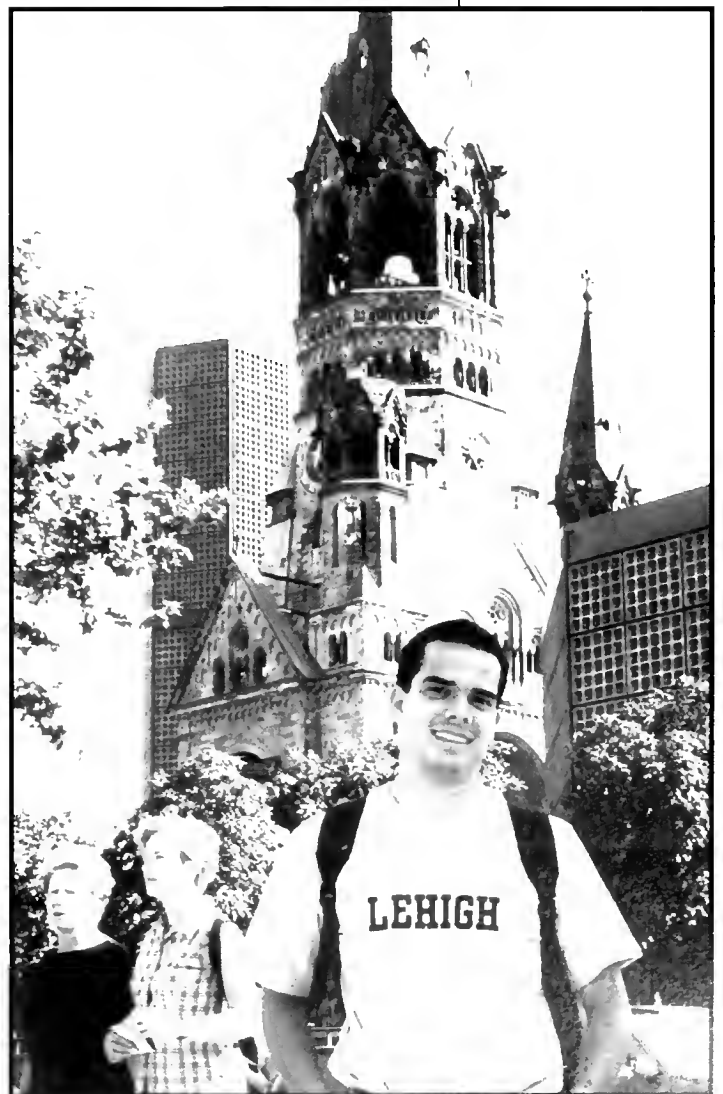

At Lehigh students have the opportunity to choose from over 40 different study abroad programs in more than 30 countries. Spain, Italy, France, England and Germany are only a few of the nations where students have gone to study a different culture, language, and history. These programs challenge students to learn in a setting which is very different from what they are accustomed. This past winter a group of 13 students had the opportunity to travel to Costa Rica and learn about sustainable development throughout the country. They spent 17 days visiting locations throughout the country including the capital city, a rain forest, dry forest, cloud forest, and volcanoes. It does not matter which country a student chooses to visit, all leave with lasting memories of the great time they had.

TAILGATES

For all of the tailgaters it is considered to be just another Saturday morning of cheering on the Lehigh football team. Everyone gathers for some food and to socialize. People can be heard talking about the following game and just how much Lehigh will crush its opponent by this time. Tailgates start in September when the weather is warm and go into November when the weather gets unbearable and everyone can be seen bundled up. Tailgates are just another opportunity for family, alumni, and friends to gather around and talk about upcoming events.

HALLOWEEN

Every Halloween Lehigh students take the time to let their inner selves out. It is a day when nothing is expected and you can be anything that you want. Halloween on this campus is an excuse to rekindle some of our childish spirit. On this day anything from angels to devils can be found roaming the Lehigh campus, all with devious mischief in their eyes. The students let loose and dress up with their friends to celebrate a day that we used to fantasize about as children. Some halls, sororities, and fraternities take on a common theme and face the world united. The pictures here show just a few of the students we caught in the act regressing. So come and join the excitement of being who you always wanted to be. Engage in the youthful spirit that makes this holiday so special.

Quarterback John Elway led the Denver Broncos to a 34-19 win against the Atlanta Falcons in Super Bowl XXXIII at Pro Player Stadium in Miami. The Broncos scored 17 points in the game's first half and then 17 more in the 4th quarter alone.

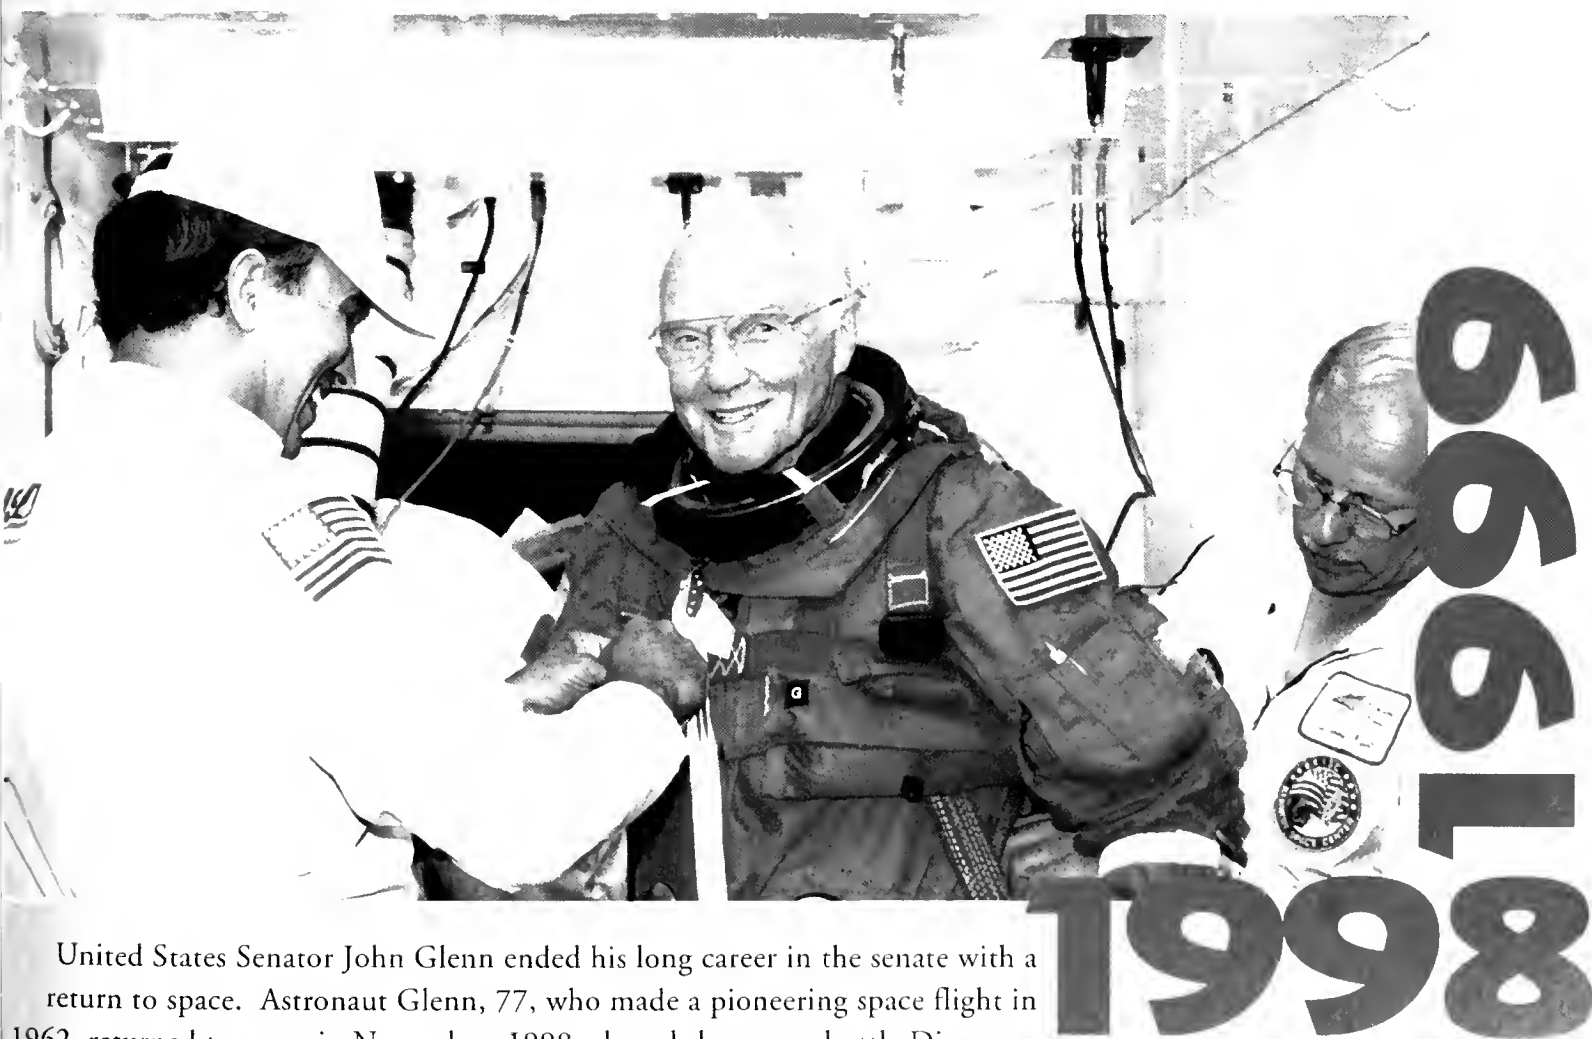

Hurricane Georges was the costliest disaster in the 117 years of the Red Cross relief efforts, topping the $81.5 million the agency spent on Hurricane Andrew. Georges ripped up through the Florida Keys and into the Gulf of Mexico before is slammed into Mississippi and Alabama. Preliminary industry estimates put Georges' cost to insurance companies at $2.5 billion, the third costliest such storm in record.

Pope John Paul II began his 21st year as Pope in the fall of 1998. The 78-year-old pontiff continued to be a champion of economic justice and an outspoken defender of the Catholic Church in Communist countries and remained uncompromising on moral issues. In addition, he recently released a new compact disc which contains some of his speeches, songs from around the world and even some songs sung by the Pope himself.

United States Senator John Glenn ended his long career in the senate with a return to space. Astronaut Glenn, 77, who made a pioneering space flight in 1962, returned to space in November, 1998, aboard the space shuttle Discovery on a 10 day mission.

President Bill Clinton became embroiled in a White House scandal that led to Congressional hearings on possible impeachment.

It all started when Republican attorney Kenneth Starr was appointed as a Special Prosecutor to investigate President and Hillary Clinton's failed investment in an Arkansas real estate venture called Whitewater. A grand jury was called and that led to several other investigations the eventually focused on accusations that the President was involved in obstruction of justice and perjury.

President Clinton was accused of having an 18-month sexual relationship with Monica Lewinsky, then a 21-year-old White House intern. President Clinton eventually did admit to inappropriate behavior, but Congress pushed forward to bring the President to an impeachment trial in the Senate.

House Judiciary committee Chairman Henry Hyde, a Republican from Illinois, led the House of Representatives in the impeachment of President Clinton. He then delivered the Articles of Impeachment to the United States Senate. A trial to impeach the president was concluded but not before a vote of 43-57 rejected a motion to dismiss the case against the President.

The Backstreet Boys got together about five years ago when several of the members met at auditions. The group was named after a big market in Orlando, FL.

As students were preparing to return to school in September, the stock market's Dow Jones Industrial Average was taking a dive. Down 512 points -- or 6 percent -- in one day. It wasn't a pretty picture on Wall Street. It was not a happy time for jittery investors to be in the stock market. Their faith in the economy was greatly rewarded when the market climbed above the 10,000 mark for the first time in history early in the spring.

Mark McGwire and Sammy Sosa, two power hitters in the game of baseball, were in a battle of home runs during the summer. Both were looking to beat the home run record of 61 set by New York Yankee Roger Maris in 1961. When the dust settled at the end of the season, McGwire, a 34 year old right-handed hitter from the St. Louis Cardinals, won the home record with 70. Sosa, a 30-year old right-handed hitter from the Chicago Cubs hit 66 home runs.

It was the year of the women in music. This is assuredly proved by the successes of Celine Dion, Sarah McLachlan and Shania Twain.

Every step we take will in some way be a result of the challenges we met and were able to overcome during our time at Lehigh.

ON THE EDGE OF ACHIEVEMENT

We are at this place called Lehigh for the same purpose: to receive an education. No matter what other activities may occupy our time, we all share a common goal. To graduate, to get out of here, to move on to bigger and better things. Everything in our lives, to some extent, will be a result of the classes we took and the people we meet during our years in this institution. For better or for worse, Lehigh is a part of who we are and who we will become. It is here that we broke boundaries and dared to dream. It is this place, Lehigh University, that we will remember with fondness when thinking about the good old days. We are part of this institution and it will always be a part of who we are and whatever we strive to achieve.

ACADEMICS

Opportunity defines the essence of the College of Arts and Sciences. The college has 40 disciplines, 18 academic departments and over 110 majors as diverse as biological sciences, classical studies, international relations, mathematics, music and sociology. As a result of this huge span of study, the college is able to cater to individualized student choices. The student-oriented faculty members enhance the range of opportunity by being both accessible and involved with the students. They are able to take advantage of the small-college benefits of close student-faculty interaction, and to let the students get hands on experience within this exciting and challenging intellectual environment.

As we approach the next millennium, the major focus in chemistry and biochemistry will be directed toward a strong undergraduate research program.

A larger number of students will be involved, and they will be encouraged to begin research earlier in their curriculum. Initiatives are underway to achieve these goals including a new internal brochure on undergraduate research opportunities and a new program to bring industrial chemists who have retired early onto the campus to work with undergraduates in the pharmaceuticals area. In other aspects of development, the College of Arts and Sciences has given the department additional resources to upgrade the undergraduate laboratory instrumentation. The web will be used to deliver course information and student progress assessment to allow greater classroom interactions. At the graduate level a strong core research focus will include more diversified research experience.

The department of international relations provides students with a systematic understanding of world politics. Students majoring in international relations can expect to acquire detailed knowledge of such topics as contending theories of world politics; foreign policy decision making; international security and arms control; global problems such as terrorism and refugee relief; international political economy; and the role of international organizations. International relations students use an interdisciplinary approach that includes political science, history, economics, sociology and psychology.

The Department of Journalism & Communication plans to continue to be at the leading edge of on-line journalistic education. Its on-line initiative has been rooted in the University strengths in technology and engineering. It has also built upon Lehigh's long tradition of journalism education, which emphasizes research, writing, editing, ethics, law and other core competencies, as well as experiential learning through professional internships. Lehigh's Journalism & Communication students benefit from an educational experience that very few universities can offer. Students receive a classic liberal arts education along with exposure to the latest technology, one to one teaching and hands on professional practice. A primary goal of the department is to gain more recognition.

The department of Art & Architecture has grown from a handful of faculty and students seven years ago to an overwhelming total of over a hundred to-day. The department's main focus is to teach the basics of studio art and architecture, finding its niche in providing a professional education. This allows students to maintain a focus on art and architecture while still building a liberal arts background.

Its aspirations for the future of the department will be the installment of a program called the Integrated Product Development (IPD). IPD will fully integrate the university's three colleges producing more classes on the advancement of computer technology in the field of Art and Architecture.

In the 21st century, the Department of Mathematics will continue to strive for excellence in the areas of research, teaching and scholarship. Their goal is to create an environment in which faculty and students will flourish together. In striving to provide outstanding teaching to their undergraduate and graduate students, they will vigorously promote the advancement, perpetuation and promulgation of knowledge in order to assist the students to grow intellectually and to prepare them for their chosen professions.

This year the department of Sociology & Anthropology celebrates its 35th year at Lehigh. Initially they were housed in various other departments, even within the Business College! Looking into the department's future, they have high standards and new ideas for the next century. Their graduate program is changing into a Sociology Masters.

They have begun to develop a full scale program in archaeology, and are making this a focus in the future.

They believe that in 35 years from now, Sociology & Anthropology will have a whole new look.

"I know that it printed! I hit the print key four times." This troubled student is not the only one who searches through piles of print outs looking for his business memo.

The joy of freshman business classes. A frustrated Chris Duncan is about to give up all hope on her business assignment.

The College of Business and Economics is changing rapidly these days.

Dean Ota recently announced that the business department will split into three separate departments. This is a sign of major progress within the college, as the business department originally consisted of 6 separate fields of study. The three new departments will be Finance and Law, Accounting, and Marketing and Management. The chairmen of these departments have also been announced: Professor Stevens will head of the Management Department; Professor Sinclair will remain the head of the Accounting Department; and Professor Greenleaf will become the head of the Finance and Law Department.

On October 8, 1998, at the Founder's Day celebration, the College of Engineering and Applied Sciences received the largest single donation from a Lehigh Alumni in history. Peter C. Rossin, class of 1948, donated $25 million to the college which was subsequently named after him. Dean Stenger commented that the change is not just in the name that the college bears, it has also adopted Mr. Rossin's philosophy which serves as a role model for students. The funds will be used to improve laboratories, offer student scholarships, and to endow new professorships.

Being a part of the top twenty programs in the nation is not something to be taken lightly.

However, the department of Civil and Environmental Engineering would like to take their program one step further and become one of the top elite in the nation.

As the year 2000 approaches, the department is expanding their research horizons. They are undertaking many new projects that will be funded by prominent organizations that include: the Navy, the National Science Foundation, the Federal Government and the Environmental Protection Agency.

At the present time, the Electrical Engineering and Computer Science department is one of the largest departments within the P.C. Rossin College of Engineering and Applied Science. But there will be no downsizing for them! In fact, the department has plans to grow in all areas, including undergraduate and graduate enrollment, faculty and research, as the new millennium approaches.

Currently, the program is unique in its offering three different degrees. Students may choose from degrees in Electrical Engineering, Computer Engineering or a degree in Computer Science.

Engineering or Business? This three students are probably not engineers because if they were they would be in the library and not relaxing outside of the U.C.

For more than one hundred and thirty years the Mechanical Engineering and Mechanics department has been training high quality students and performing ground breaking research and engineering, a tradition which they will carry into the next millennium. The department will continue to maintain their traditional research programs in solid mechanics, energy, mechanical systems, and engineering mathematics, and the newly added thrusts in manufacturing and smart materials. The department is currently working with a new Integrated Product Development program (IPD) that has emerged as a national leader in the training of students in the innovative design and development of engineered products. As a department they are active, innovative, and on the move to take Lehigh's Mechanical Engineering and Mechanics to even greater leadership roles in the 21st century.

There are many options within the College of Education, allowing students to successfully pursue and complete a career in education. For one such option, the college offers a 5-year Bachelor's and Master's combined degree program. This program leads students to a Bachelor's degree in a field within the College of Arts and Sciences, a Master's degree in education and also certification as a teacher. Another option is to obtain a minor in education which allows the student to explore a professional career with elementary, secondary or special education students.

EDUCATION

"Education is the key to success." However, in order for students to learn a professor must be creative enough to keep her students interested and awake. It seems like this professor does not have a problem with that.

The College of Education has had a short history compared to the many decades some of the other departments have under their belts. Regardless of that fact, they are expecting to have a very long future.

As the new, unexplored age advances, the Education Department has many new programs in the works. One of these programs just became available to the Class of 2002. The new programs allow students to receive a 5 year BA/MA -BS/MS/M Ed degree. This program is technology oriented and expected to make Lehigh graduates very marketable. This is just one small preview of the new programs expected to go down in the history books for this young but very talented department.

The President's Farewell...

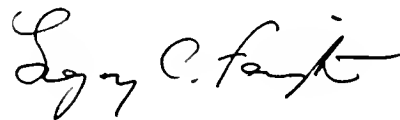

What should I say to you who are on the verge of what is called real life? So much has already been said in your four years at Lehigh. What's left?

Of course, the most useful bits of advice are repeated so many times that they begin to sound like a series of clichés. But, clichés are often true. So here is some advice with no tuition bill attached.

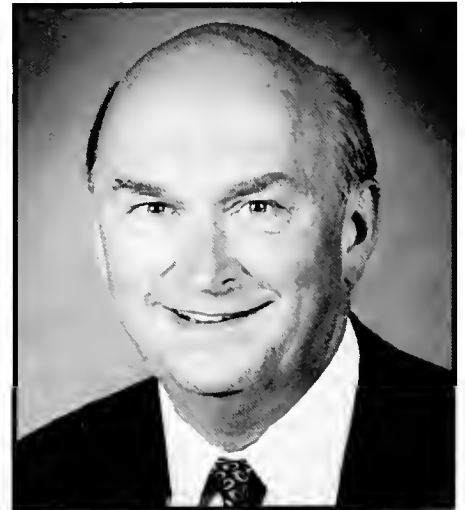

First, real life is great, but you don't have to be really real by 26. If you want to go to graduate school, by all means go. If you want to start a company and make your first million by 30, get busy. If you have always wondered what the Roman Forum looks like at sunset, or want to polish your French by the Eiffel Tower, volunteer for an archeological dig, or trek through Asia, think about doing it now. It's a great time for adventures. You can take a risk, follow a whim, and still have time to have two children, a mortgage, and a lawn to mow by the time you are 35.

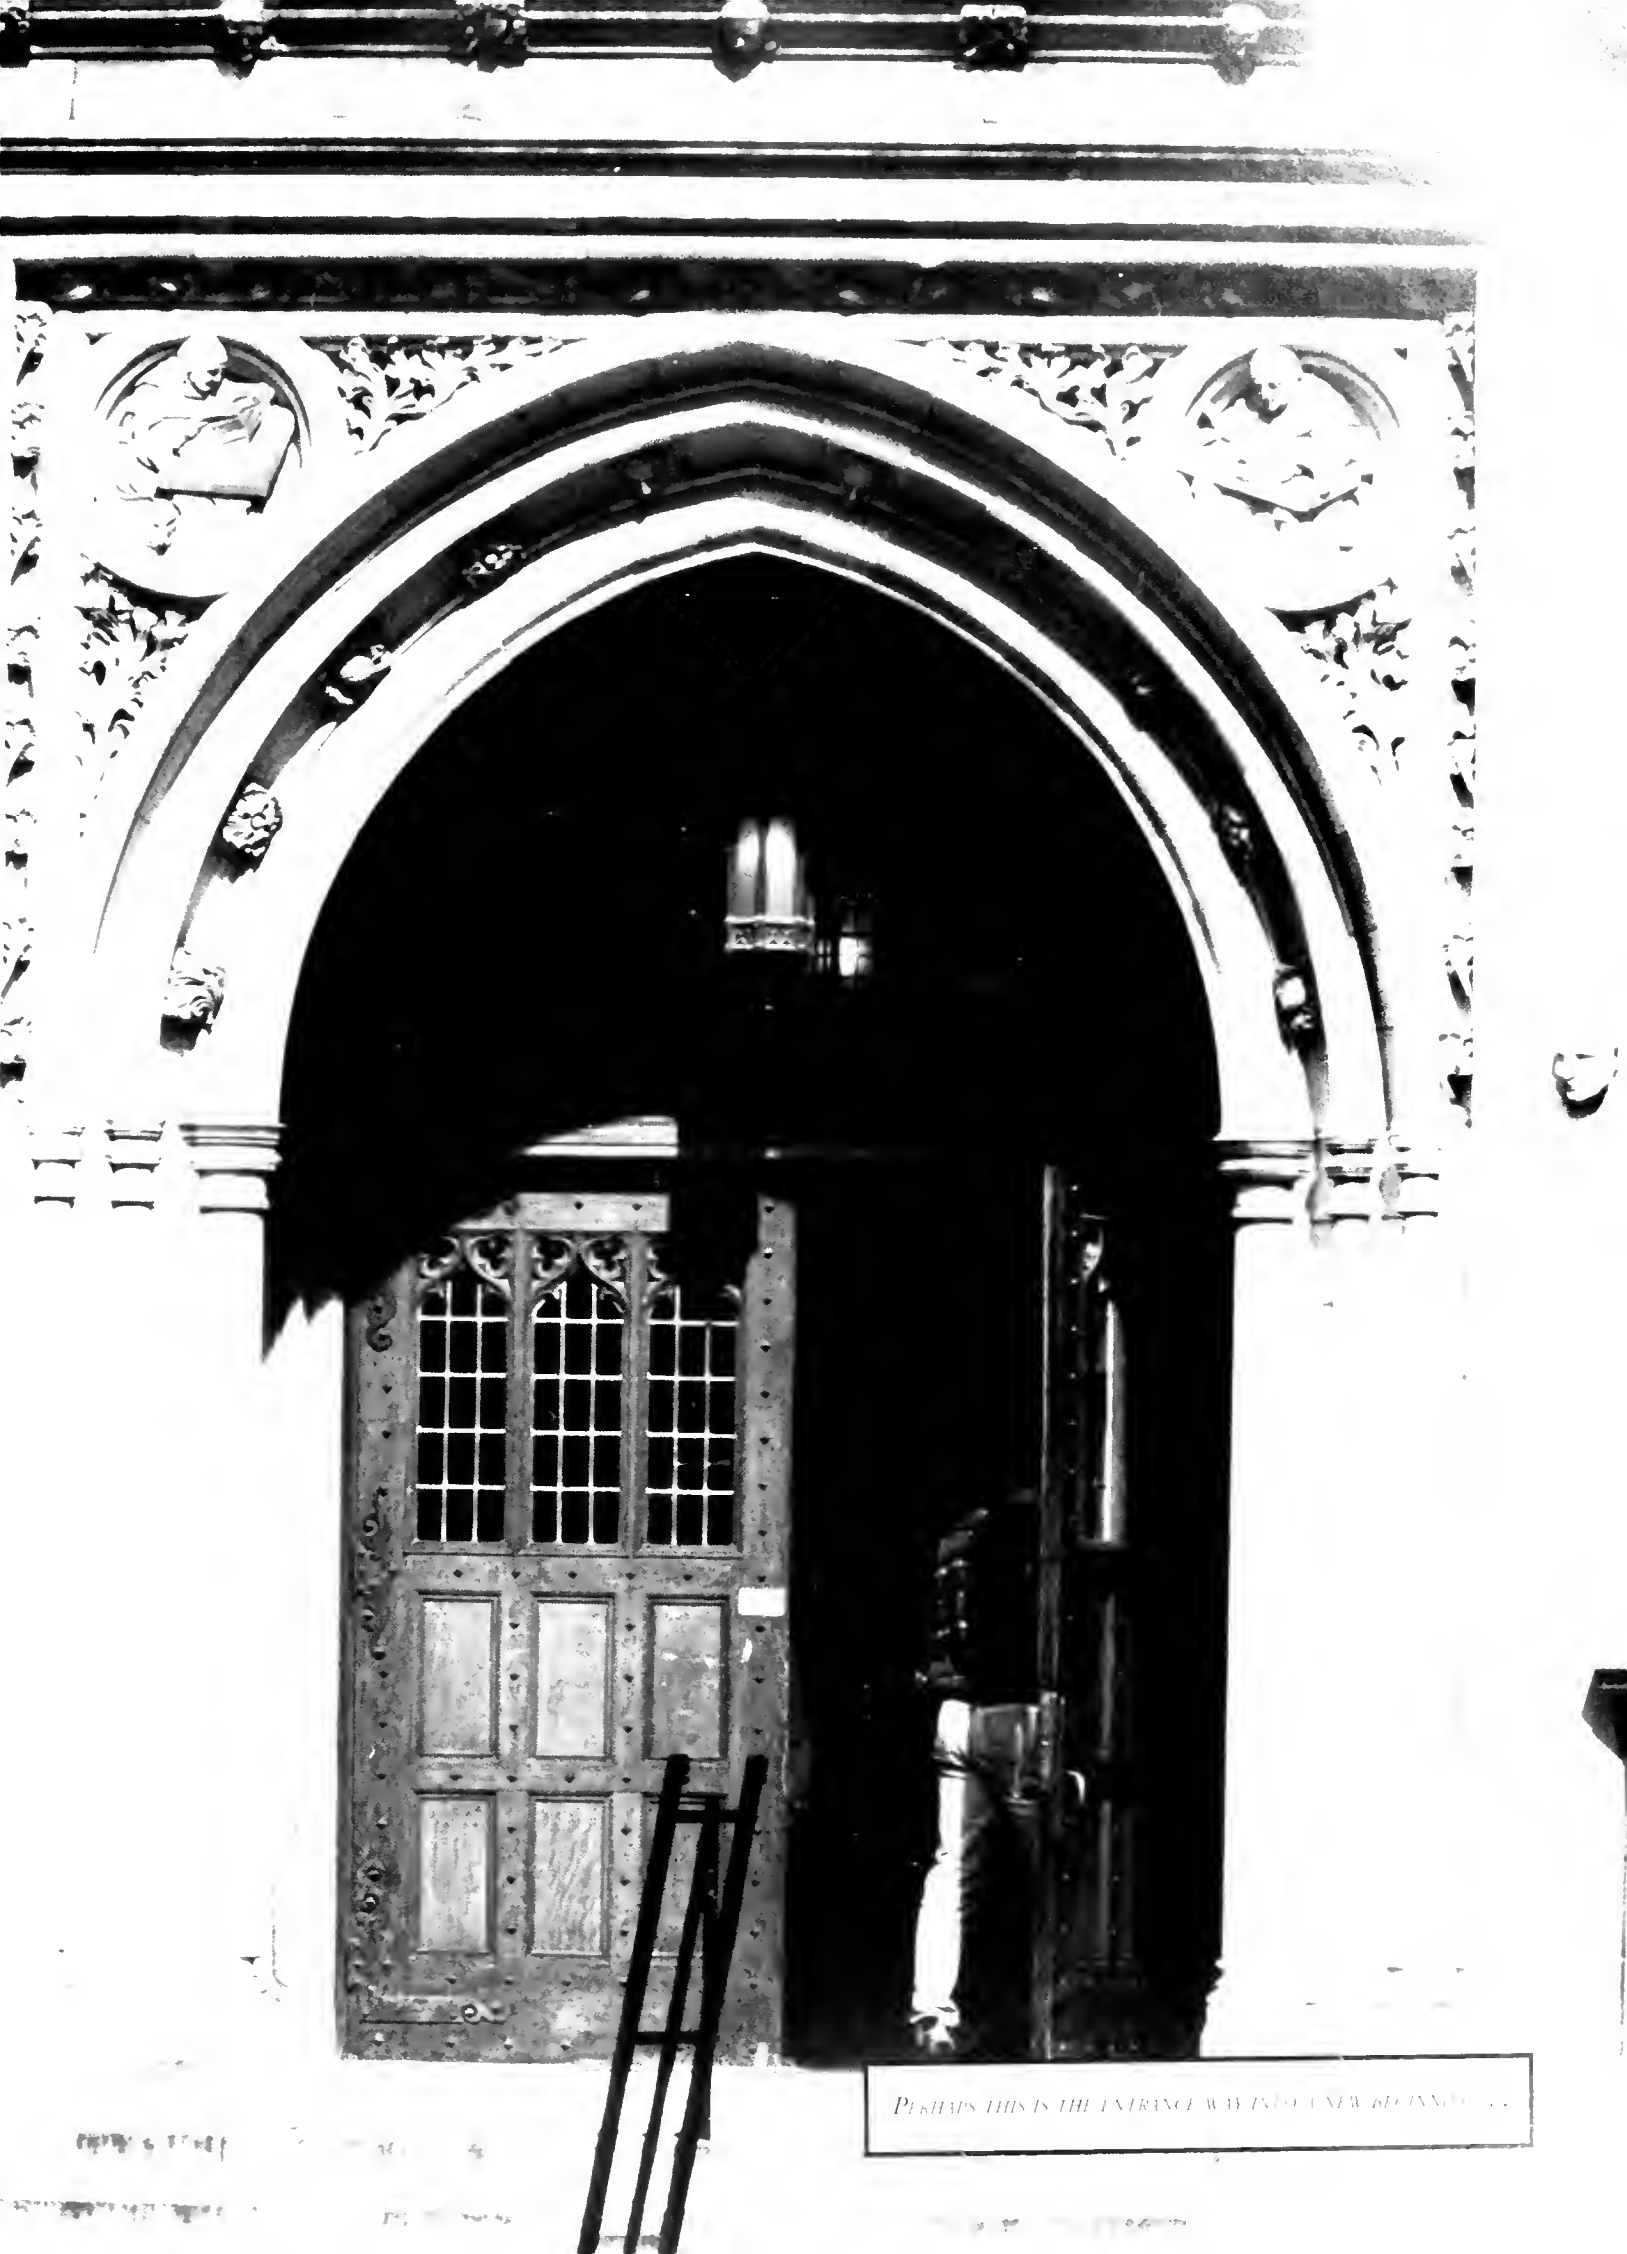

Next, remember that you have one of the greatest opportunities of all: to work at something that interests you. I hope that you will always be blessed with enthusiasm for your work. It will keep you full of life and open to new ideas and new people.

Finally, reach for your star but make sure that your foot is not in someone else's face while you stretch. No matter how many stars you collect, people are still more important. Take time to be a good son or daughter, husband or wife, parent, friend, and member of the community. Do great things, but be a good person, too. In the end, that's what matters most. Above all, have wonderful lives, and come back to Lehigh now and then to tell us how you are doing.

Gregory C. Farrington

ON THE EDGE OF POSSIBILITIES

It all started with Freshmen Move-In Day. Who could forget that hot August day? Freshman year is always a learning experience for everyone. We come back for our sophomore year more prepared and ready for anything. We have our friends and our minds made up about what we really want to do with the rest of our lives, or at least we think so. Then, onward and upward we move, we are juniors, past the halfway point. Time to start thinking about interviews, loan payments, and that dreaded R-word, responsibility. Now, at this point, more so than ever before, we are truly on the edge of possibilities.

UNDERGRADUATES

Freshmen

Freshmen year symbolizes a new beginning. Entering Lehigh, we were on the edge of many adjustments. Becoming independent was an experience that had some positive and negative side effects. Although we were living with our friends, it was hard not to become homesick from time to time. Sharing a room freshman year wasn't always easy either, it often tested and developed our interpersonal skills. The first year at Lehigh made us stronger overall, ready to face the challenges of what lay ahead.

Sophomore year was reality time. The fun-filled days of freshmen year seemed like a fading memory, well not completely. Class work became more demanding and made us all feel a bit edgy. But sophomore year was good for other reasons. It was a year in which we developed closer relationships with our housemates and roommates, a year in which we felt like we truly belonged to the Lehigh University family.

ON THE EDGE OF ACTIVITY

Despite all the changes that the new century may bring, some things within organizations will always remain the same. Student Senate will continue to exemplify leadership as they work toward improving life at Lehigh. Without teamwork, the Rugby team would not score or tackle as efficiently. Friendship is a long-lasting and central feature of Best Buddies, while the members of Alpha Phi Omega provide community services to others that will continue to be appreciated well beyond their years here. Each year, young Mountain Hawk fans and elder Engineers are awakened by the thundering spirit of the Marching '97. Each organization is different, yet together they are all on the edge of activity.

ORGANIZATIONS

he Lehigh University Choir, under the direction of Dr. Steven Sametz, has come to exemplify excellence in choral music. Through yearly auditions, new students are chosen on the basis of musicianship and vocal skills. The group rehearses twice weekly and performs up to four times a year in Lehigh's Arts Center. The choir regularly tours the United States and has also performed in Germany, Austria, France, and the Caribbean. This summer the choir is planning a three-week tour that will include five countries in Asia.

Although the choir tours as an a cappella group, their repertoire also includes major works. The choir consistently premieres new works by a number of composers including Dr. Sametz. Growing every year in and selectivity, the Lehigh University Choir is quickly becoming a showpiece of the music department as well as the university.

BEST BUDDIES

The goal of Best Buddies is to provide an opportunity for college students and individuals with mental retardation to become friends. Students and persons with mental retardation are given a chance to develop leadership potential, improve social skills, boost self-confidence, learn how to live in a community, and expand their network of friends through a one-to-one friendship. This year, Best Buddies had a pumpkin-picking outing with a hayride, a bowling outing, and also supported a Lehigh basketball game. Every year, Best Buddies sponsors a Best Buddies Ball, which unites all the area universities for a night of dancing and fun. In addition to the group outings, they also share in one-to-one time with their buddies which is the essential part of developing a friendship. Best Buddies is proud to say that since last year, they have increased their matches from 13 to 27. They have definitely come a long way!

CREW TEAM

his year has been one of great change for Lehigh Crew. Through the course of the year we moved into our long awaited new boat-house and hired a new coach, quite possibly two of the greatest movements forward for the team.

Through the coaching of Paul Savelle the team was able to take on new challenges and achieve. We received medals at two regattas in the fall and are working toward even stronger and faster boats for the upcoming seasons. This year we were given the opportunity to compete individually at the Bucknell Erg Sprints. There Lehigh Crew shined as they were awarded a total of ten medals across many events. Through it all the team grew together and most of all we will take with us lessons in and friendship. To our seniors Jim Stauder and Sasha Sopic, thanks for all of your hard work through the years as both rowers and executive board members. We will all miss your energy and personalities and most of all your dedication in making the team what it is today and in the future. Best of Luck!

The Lehigh University Interfraternity Council is comprised of 27 fraternity presidents, 7 committee heads, and 6 executive board members. The members of the IFC, as leaders on campus, hold the responsibility of representing the fraternities here at Lehigh to the best of their ability. Since the colonization of the first fraternity at Lehigh in 1872, the system has made an extraordinary amount of positive contributions to the welfare of the Lehigh community. Through fundraisers and various other community service projects and events, the fraternities and Interfraternity Council at Lehigh have worked hard to create and maintain positive friendships with both the Lehigh and Bethlehem communities. Some events that the IFC has helped this year include events during Alcohol Awareness and Eating Disorders Awareness Weeks, SADD events, and other programs designed to educate Lehigh students in various areas of concern such as AIDS and drug abuse. BROWN AND WHITE SPORTS he Brown and White, Lehigh's student newspaper, has appeared every Tuesday and Friday during the school year since January 16, 1894. From the windowless subterranean of the University Center, the B&W editors spend endless hours to the task of bringing the campus "All the Lehigh News First." The task is not a simple one, but is always worthwhile. Whether physically confronting First Amendment violators, driving to UMass, defending editorials, or searching dumpsters for stolen newspapers, the editors take their jobs seriously (well, most of the time). We'll never forget: the unisex bathroom, Goddess Jenn Rauch, Jennyev, L.A. Jones, Pat-a-cakes, CutieH, Big Fish, calling Stevie G. for e-board, "that special someone," early press nights, no 6 am exits, Danny from the Free Press, Jenn's wax balls, "Eli, can you help me?," CD comics, Anna Mia dinners, Jack and Wally--we love you!!!!, candy from the Lule boys, Diane and Linda--you're the best, news that b-slaps Pat in the face, Drama , Mickey You're So Fine, Bill White--we live for your approval, UMass pressbox, secrets from the drive home, meeting the Everett boys, Brooke getting tough-skinned, Jen O.--enough said, and of course, the Year of the Woman!

appa Kappa Psi, the National Honorary Fraternity for College Band-members, established the Kappa Gamma chapter at Lehigh University on January 28, 1995.

Since that time the brothers have strived to create a name for themselves here on campus and in the community. Over the past school year, the chapter had many service projects. These included helping to clean the score library, ushering for at the Zoellner

Arts Center, tutoring middle school children in music at Broughal, caroling for the holiday season, and participating in the Good Scholar Election. The chapter also participated in many social events ranging from brotherhood dinners, a game night, ultimate frisbee, bowling, ice skating, and a cosponsored party with the Mustard and Cheese Society. Kappa Gamma was also proud to initiate the fifth class of , the epsilons, during the spring semester. Next year the chapter hopes to hold precincts for the North East district and expand more in the music department, the campus, and the community.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, is founded on three cardinal principles: leadership, friendship, and service. The Alpha Psi chapter at Lehigh University has served the area for over 60 years. Our members volunteer their time and energy to local organizations including Second Harvest Food Bank, Red Cross, New Bethany Ministries, Easton Family Center, Easton ASPCA, and the Miller Blood Center. Every year in the spring, APO sponsors CID, Community Interaction Day, when students help clean up Bethlehem's South Side. Brothers also volunteer on campus by ushering at Zoellner events and sponsoring SADD dances. This past year, brothers organized a very successful sectional conference where other college chapters came and participated in various workshops and a service project to the AIDS foundation. Recently, APO's size has been increasing, which will allow them to take part in more projects during the upcoming years.

SKI TEAM

he men's and women's ski teams continued to be a dominant force in the U.S. Collegiate Ski Association's New Jersey Ski Conference. The men's team, led by a strong group of seniors were joined by a very determined freshman and once again earned first place honors in the league. Steve Schmidt also received an individual award for placing second overall in the league. Both teams went on to qualify for the Mid-Atlantic Regional Championships, where the men's team also proved to be a dominant threat, and narrowly missed qualifying for the National Championships. Pat Potak, the team's dedicated advisor, coach, mom, and biggest fan continued to be the key to the team's success. This year the team was successful both on and off the ski slopes. The seniors, who have led the team for four years, will be greatly missed. Their tradition, however, will be present for years to come.

ON THE EDGE OF VICTORY

This past year has shown us why Lehigh athletics are on the edge. We watched the football team go undefeated, win the Patriot League and push there way into the spotlight by making national playoffs. Andrew Mittendorf, who has signed with the Colorado Rapids, helped bring the men's soccer team to a second place finish in the Patriot League Tournament. The athletes' dedication, talent, and work ethic helped to raise the standard for teams to come. The Men's Swimming and Diving Program continued to show excellence throughout the winter by finally beating Army and pulling the Patriot League title into their hands. Lehigh teams have been leaving their mark everywhere, and both athletes and fans will remember the great times.

Just like second year head coach Julie Leonhardt predicted, her Mountain Hawk team did do better this season. The squad improved from last season's 2-14 marks to finish at 6-12. With the help of Natalie Ciampa, Stephanie Cesario and Jami Bisetti, Lehigh was able to net wins. Ciampa, a junior forward, led the team in scoring with nine goals and four assists for 22 points. She was the third leading scorer in the Patriot League and was named to the All-Patriot League Second Team. Cesario, a junior midfielder/forward, netted 3 goals and four assists and was named as a Patriot League Player of the Week.

1998 PATRIOT LEAGUE CHAMPIONS

The 1998 football team went undefeated in regular season play for the first time since 1951. They captured the Patriot League title and earned many more bragging rights, which include Coach of the Year, Player of the Year and Defensive Player of the Year. These honors went to Head Coach Kevin Higgins, Quarterback Phil Stambaugh and Defensive Line-man Nick Martucci, respectively. Martucci is the first Mountain Hawk to ever receive this award. Rich Bodnar, Deron Braswell, Sam Brinley, Saundrell Davison, Ian Eason, Jay Heibel, Ron Jean, Steve Ludwig, Nick Martucci, Phil Stambaugh and Jaron Taaffe were named to the First Team Patriot League. Bryant Applying, Brian Baker and Antraveous Slaton were named to the Second Team. Nick Martucci and Ian Eason were named to the ECAC Division I-AA First Team, and Sam Brinley and Phil Stambaugh brought home Second Team Honors. Senior Deron Brasswell finished his career as the Patriot League's all-time reception leader with 217.

Undefeated

The Lehigh Mountain Hawks played to perfection in the regular season, giving them a record of 11-0. They captured the Patriot League title with their final victory over Lafayette, then headed down to Virginia where they defeated Richmond in their first postseason game. The boys did not take an easy path to victory; in overtime against Princeton QB Stambaugh ran for 20 yards, when none of his receivers could get open to score the winning touchdown. Lehigh came from behind to beat Columbia in the fourth quarter when Jaron Taaffe kicked a 47 yard field goal, the longest for Lehigh since 1991. In the 134th meeting of Lehigh and Lafayette, Ron Jean ran for a 92 yard touchdown, and was named Player of the Game. The only loss of the season went to UMass in a second round playoff game. The Hawks battled intensely but could not hold on. Lehigh set a Goodman stadium record with 6-0, and set a school record with twelve straight wins and another for 13 consecutive victories in two years.

For the second year straight, junior co-captain Steve Gourley lead the men's team. The NCAA District II Championships proved to be the highlight of Lehigh's year. With the men's 15th place finish out of 25 teams, the Mountain Hawks moved their regional ranking from 23rd to 15th. After unsuccessful attempts over the past three years, the men finally overtook long-time rival Lafayette in a meet. Lehigh placed seventh out of 29 teams in the IC4A/ECAC meet, while the Leopards finished in tenth place. In the Patriot League Championships, Lehigh finished in fourth place out of six teams.

The Lehigh women had yet another strong season under the guidance of head coach Sue Troyan. Junior guard Danielle Baldwin had a phenomal year and was named to the All-Patriot League second team. Baldwin was the high scorer for the Mountain Hawks in eight games and along with junior gaurd Maureen Trigo provided Lehigh with a powerful attack. Sophomore Sara Hessel and junior Alexis Bevington were also huge factors at the forward position on both offense and defense. Junior center Christina Henry also had a great year and along with the rest of her classmates, she will look to dominate the Patriot League during her senior year.

The Men's Basketball team has definitely travelled down the road not usually taken. Last year, the Lehigh basketball team had the largest turnaround in winning percentage in the NCAA. This year, one of Lehigh's best players was sidelined with an injury for most of the season. Senior Brett Eppheimer had outstanding performances throughout his undergraduate years and is sixth on the all-time scoring list. Although Brett was missed, other players stepped up to the challenge. Senior Dan Handerhan scored 32 points against Drew University, and Junior co-captain Jared Hess was the high scorer five games in a row. Hess along with Junior Steve Aylsworth helped to keep the team focused and determined. This was shown in the Patriot League tournament when Lehigh was victorious over Navy in the first round game. Lehigh will look to continue their improvement next year.

Freshman Erica Feinman and junior Kim Luff both had great seasons. Kim transferred to Lehigh this year and grabbed the first singles spot. She landed herself on the All-Patriot League team along with third singles sophomore Lauren DeCarlo. The girls had a great season and are looking to beat Army as well as win the championship next year.

GOLF

M E N ' S

Three of the twelve Lehigh golfers were named to the All-Patriot League team. Senior Tim Johnson, Freshmen Bowen Osborn and Brad Ispass, all placed in the top ten in order to make the League team. Lehigh's best showing of the season came in their own invitational. The team placed first in front of their three other opponents, Muhlenberg, Moravian, and, most importantly, Lafayette. Golf is different than any other sport because they play competitively in both the fall and spring. The highlight of the fall came when the Lehigh team placed second at the Patriot League Championships.

TOP: Tim Johnson looks at his ball off in the distance;
 CENTER: Sophomore Ben Liaw swings into the sun;
 BOTTOM: This putter needs to knock his ball out of the woods.

RIGHT: Oh so close, another stroke is all this ball needs; BELOW: An essential, the golf bag.

ABOVE: This golfer looks down the green at his performance; LEFT: A gentle tap was all this ball needed to end the hole.

ON THE EDGE OF FRIENDSHIP

When most people reflect on their college experiences and think about their favorite part, usually their friends come to mind. It often is said that people make some of the best friends of their lives during their years in college. At Lehigh, that certainly is true. Whether you live in an off-campus apartment, in an on-campus dormitory, or in a fraternity or sorority, the friends you make over the years will be people that change your life forever. Friendship is the strongest bond created among people in college, and when we look back on our years at Lehigh, the friends we made will be pleasant reminders of our wonderful experiences here.

LIFESTYLES

A group of brothers from Zeta Psi smile for the camera and take a break from what seems to be their very exciting duties during a late night event.

Life Around Campus

At any one of the very exciting football games this past season you could find friends catching up and cheering on the team. Here, Christina Roedema and Shari Abrams take a moment to pose for the camera. A true sacrifice to tear their attention away from the game for even a few seconds.

Studying is always hard. It only gets more difficult when there is music playing in your ear and people running up and down the halls of the dorm. This undergrad seems to be fighting off the most popular studying enemy, the bed. Many a student have fallen asleep while reading on their bed. If this student is smart, he will sell his secret and turn a profit as well as a B+ in grade.

When the football team made it into the NCAA playoffs this year, everyone hopped into their cars and traveled to the University of Richmond and UMass to cheer on our Mountain Hawks.

Life Around

Campus

A tropical local, a perfect place for a relaxing vacation. Some house-mates travel to the Florida keys for a week full of fun, sun and whatever else happened to cross their path.

There are many things that happen at Lehigh every year. The initiation of the new pledge classes however, is usually an event that can be heard no matter how far away you may be from the festivities. As far as public disturbances go, it is these celebrations that make the students at Lehigh, and the new brothers of Crow, the most proud.

On/Off Campus Living

One of the best things that most people picture when you tell them you live off campus. Friends are always nearby and the signature porches encourage conversations with people just down the street. Living off campus is the perfect alternative to dorm life.

Life Around

Campus

In a house just off campus, fondly nicknamed "The Annex," you can see the benefits of not having someone looking over your shoulder all the time. After all people have gotten written up for having fewer people in their dorm room but that doesn't seem to slow this party down.

Daphne Stone and friends pose for the camera during a night out on the town. Many people attest to the fact that once you move off campus you really feel like a part of the community and a sense of adventure develops when you voyage past the on-campus bounds of safety. The students did just that and it doesn't seem to be slowing their party down either.

Life Around

Campus

By the time spring break rolls around, people are so sick of winter weather at home that they pack up and travel far far away. These Phi Kappa brothers find an aquarium that apparently has a sunny beach.

Wires wires everywhere, and still no fires. As this student shows it can be a real fire hazard trying to squeeze everything you need for an entire year into one of those little cubicles the university likes to call a dorm room. When walking into M&M you think you are ahead of the game but then you realize there is only so much space for your computer, stereo and other electrical appliances. By then end of the year your room looks like this, something straight out of a fire safety special.

after five years at lehigh i've learned, cried, laughed, enjoyed, and smiled i've been betrayed, loved, cared for, trusted, and blessed enlightenment, knowledge, and love have come my way...as i've seen, painted, and photographed the world in a new perspective...

and i owe this to my teachers, professors and many more who dropped words of wisdom and support something i shall always be grateful...and for me to remember forever to those of you who stood by me...thank...i would have never survived a fifth year without you, your support, your love, and much more...to the newly weds...good luck here and don't forget to communicate everything between you two...communication is key and finally...to ms. brooks...five years is a long time...but finally we are out of here...i love you...always will...thanks four years have gone by and we have a hunch, the world isn't ready for this sketchy bunch.

they are simon, mikey, leroy, ralph, waleed and sharice, even a simple football loss draws the lehigh police.
there have been some close calls and even a fire, if mikey says he's quitting he's definitely a liar.
their respect for each other is mediocre at best,
and yes, waleed has two different sized breasts.
leroy's 2 a.m. arrivals were anticipated nightly,
"i drank the beer" he says, and smiles d-lightly.
sharice sleeps with ear plugs and we all understand, you never know when 224 will get a bit out of hand.
mikey would think ralph was less of a slut, if she wasn't always ready to show him her butt.
life at the crack den would not be complete, without the bad smell of simon's foul feet.
who's always changing the bathroom clock?
515's favorite person is certainly j-shock.
the holes in the walls were here when we came,
we made going to college look like a game.

Life Around

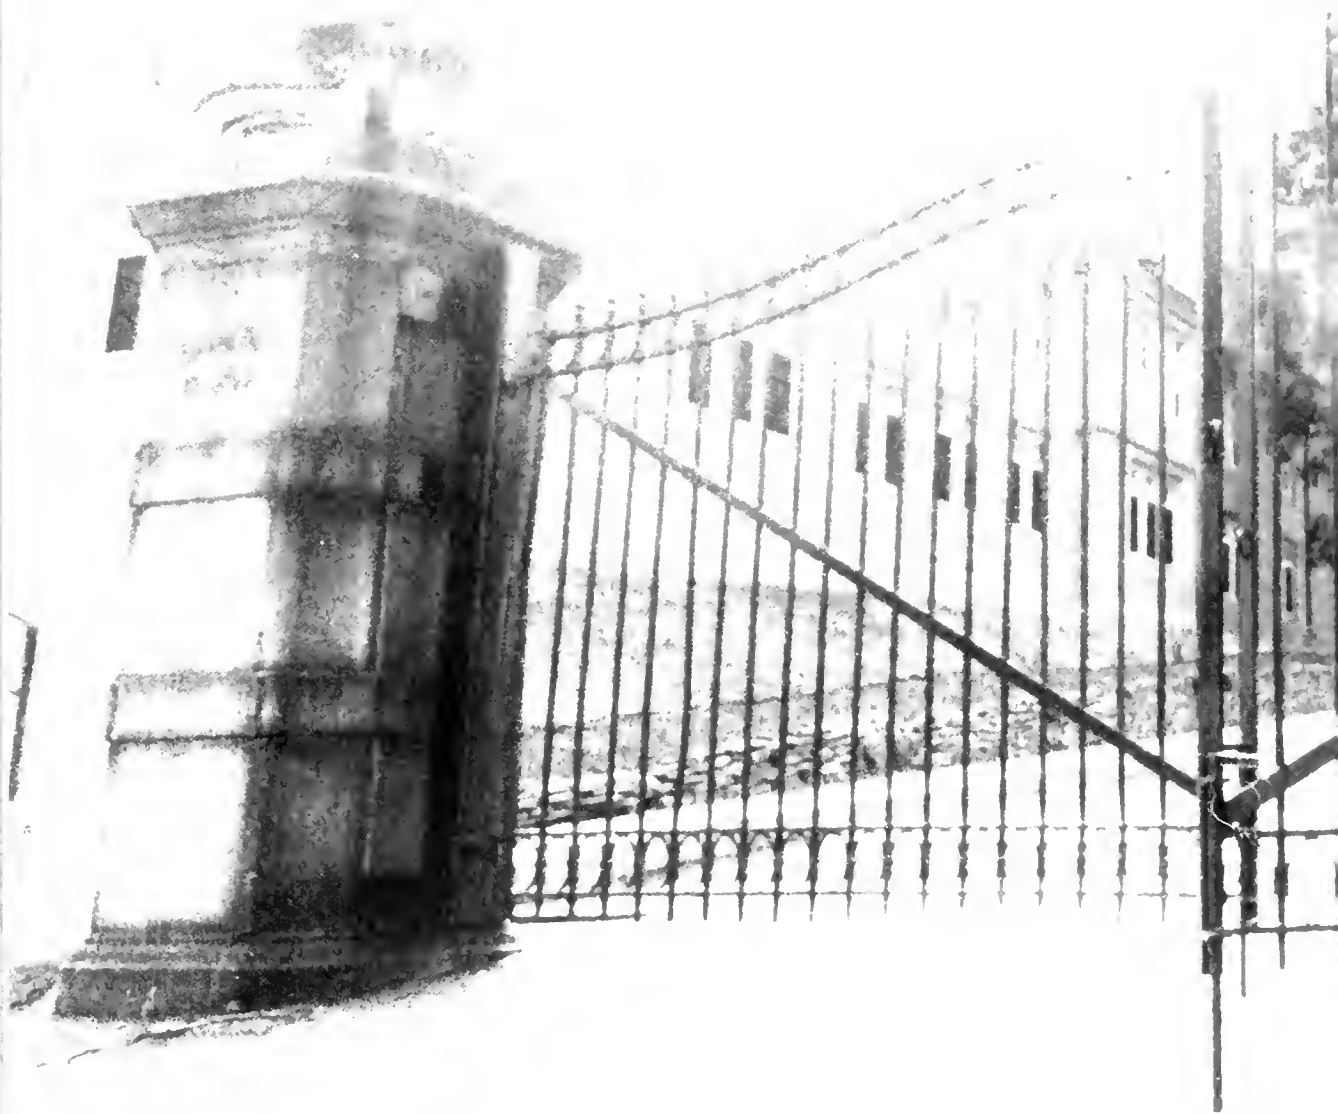

Campus

Sometimes, even on Halloween, a nap is necessary in order to be able to head back into the scary world. This blond bombshell holds someone captive on Halloween night as he dreams of all the ghosts and goblins dancing about.

Life in the lounge: Whether you are looking for a study buddy at two in the morning or someone to watch Beverly Hills 90210 or Dawson's Creek with, the lounge is always the first place to start your search. This lonely soul seems to be waiting for a friend before heading off to class. The possibilities for this space are truly limitless. It's new and popular and the lounge this year has a few new and popular. It's because it's a place where you can find a punch.

GreekLife

Access to the hill separates the hill from the rest of campus. It is the one part of campus that is a symbol of Greek Life at Lehigh.

Life Around Campus

Here former Theta Delta Chi President Kirk Gibson is getting ready for a night filled with music and fun. These parties can be found all over 'The Hill' on the weekends, people seem to flock from all over to celebrate another week finished.

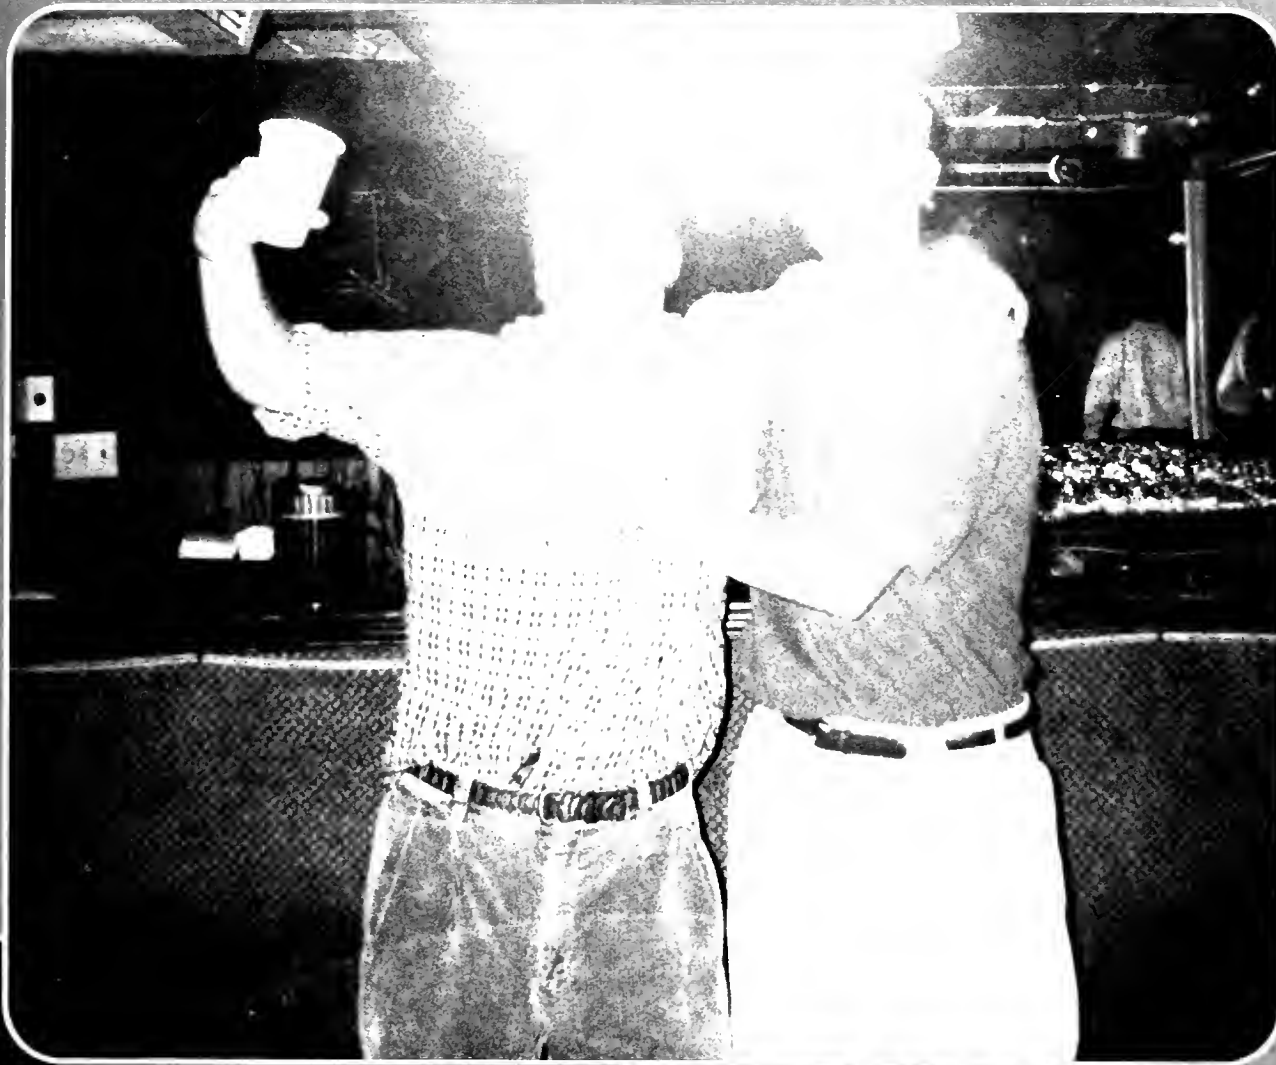

These Theresa
Xi pledges seem to enjoy the warm and wet welcome that their new brother hood offers.

Life Around

Campus

The brothers of Phi Delta are so close that they are okay with having a touchy-feely kind of relationship.

What better excuse do you need to get away from campus than Mardi Gras? Think about it, a week in New Orleans that is always the biggest and best party around. These brothers from Phi did not take too long to think about the possibilities. If the number of beads around their necks are any indication, they appear to have had a pretty good time!

Could You Imagine If...

Emily didn't have the phone attached to her ear and wore matching pajamas. Kristine didn't have an answer to EVERYTHING, wasn't mom, and didn't procrastinate. Sam didn't have a wandering eye, every guy didn't want her, and wasn't funny. Natalie didn't whine, wasn't touchy-feely, and didn't check her email 100 times a day. Robin didn't know all of the Bethlehem cops, didn't go to the gym, and wore a polo shirt and penny loafers. Amy didn't have stomach issues, didn't return everything she bought, and wasn't a walking medicine cabinet. Mindy didn't have her box of Franzia, actually lived at her house, and could find her car. Melissa actually drank and didn't have Eric. Temra didn't go to the gym everyday, didn't gossip, and didn't say "honestly." Hillary never went to the library, hated broccoli, and never got sick at a date party. Leigh knew where the gym was, dated older men, and hated karaoke. Jessica never hung out at Theta Chi, always ate steak and shrimp for dinner, and never had a smile on her face. Kim was really on a soap opera, didn't like fat boys, and still worked at City View Diner. Carol wore sweatpants, didn't ever go to the library, and moved to Pittsburgh. Jen K. was a neat freak, was sober, and became a pharmacist. Rachel wasn't a man eater, wasn't monotone, didn't get time-outs, and had a boyfriend. Allison W. was flat chested, drank in moderation, and didn't instigate. Shelby didn't talk about China, didn't get a job, wasn't working on her resume, and didn't always have a meeting. Kristi wasn't CEO, was single, didn't get her way, and didn't laugh or smile. Karen didn't have a boyfriend, talked more than Shelby, and didn't drive a Saab. Allison D. was a mut, gave-in, couldn't cook, and didn't fimo. Jen M. gave a damn, listened to rap music, and didn't live at Chi Phi. Megan gained some weight, didn't spend 90% of her life at the library, and it went loser, hooker, lush, loser.

In 10 Years:

Ursula is living in NJ working as a recruiter for Caldwell College. She's still waiting to get her pictures back from her Carnival Cruise vacation. Susan is living in Boston wondering when Carnival Cruises will call her and Ursula to be the social hosts on their newest fun ship. Lauren is a high profile lawyer, still searching for religion while fighting for the rights of ferrets in California. Kate has an established pizza monopoly throughout the country and appears on talk shows supporting legislation that would make pizza the sixth food group. Rebecca M. a recovering Diet Coke addict, drag races her bologna-getter wearing witchy boots. Alison is riding her pet brown cow to all the Macy's shoe sales. Shari is eating TCBY with her husband, Billy Joel. Lisa owns and operates a tiki bar and is a spanker. Amy dances naked on the tiki bar and is a spanker. Lauren W. is an expert nacho maker at the tiki bar and is a spanker. Julie trains dancing squirrels for the tiki bar and is a spanker. Jamie seduces younger men at the tiki bar and is a spanker. Alexis (a.k.a. two-fiddy) is a bouncer at the tiki bar and is a spanker. Katie is still a Chi Phi squirrel and is a spanker. Beth is still hugging trees in wetlands while continuing to lecture college students (only now as a professor) on the importance of proper recycling. She and Christina are still inseperable. Christina is committed to the career of educating and enlightening the minds of six year olds while spending her summers and as much time as possible in the sun on LBI. She and Beth are still inseperable. Christine is happily married to Travis in Colorado. She has a family and she and Travis are opening their own music school. Alison J. is driving a fast car and living in a house that is not connected to the ones beside it. Jamie C. is lost in France, nowhere to be found.

Guys, please be patient, this won't take long! Dumb as sh#. Schneids, how small is Mr. Schtumpy that you need a truck that long. Brickman is hiring. You're right Yusi, you don't get anorexic overnight. Gabe, still "Chasing Amy"...Smooth, Prager or Melissa? Campbell, can we be invited to your son's Bar Mitzvah? Katz is getting ready to talk, grab your ponchos and umbrellas. Mac, when are you going to outgrow your rubber sheets? The Director...where should we start? James - populating the planet. Drunk, perverted, and a 0.9 GPA is no way to go through life. Yusi, stop lying, you loved Lara. Stand clear, chainsaw is here. Hairy nipples. Roz, Rutgers was tough, huh? Juniors still suck. Jerry, wanna wrestle? Cro-Magnon man...Fred Flinstone calves - you decide. Tall, drunk and whipped is no way to go through life. The chirping piglet's record: one hook-up and eight wet beds. Shady Goodman and Shady Guttman - Dela gets all the classy girls. Ballan, is that a wife-beater or a tattoo? I'm not just the founder, I'm a member too. Prager, you are not a Brother! Yusi, you killed the lineage of mass. Gabe, permanent marker is hard to get off your face, huh? Campbell the future housewife of one Mary Abrams. Dela, tell your father to stop blowing leaves at six in the morning and waking me up. You've done 250, what's ten more? Katz, have you located your ankles yet? To the quietest booze cruise ever. Juniors still suck. Nine people in a Honda Prelude = Chainsaw in jail. Delta Phi meatheads? Just look at the Frenchman. Borowski, Fat, Drunk and a 0.5 GPA will get you thrown out of Lehigh. Gabe, are you drunk or do you always talk that way? Keeper of the pasture: ring that bell HNIC! What world do you live in? Hopefully not McCullough world. Corky and Skip - proud members of adultbuffett.com since 1995. Gabe is gay! Late night pool parties. Viva Las Vegas - thanks DK! Hairy nipples. Roz, how was Disneyworld? Marangola, you are not a senior!! Delvechio: Thank God!!! Dawson: Would have been nice. The Underground will live on. 112th: Last of the Mohicans. Sunday Morning football games in February- Brothers:115, Freshmen:0. Its time to wrestle the real world: DRINK LONG LIFE TO DELTA PHI!!!!

Well into its one hundred and sixty fourth year as a fraternity, the "Delta House" is still going strong. We ended last semester with a very spirited rush and a Patriot League Championship for football with an overall record of 12-1, and we began this semester adding 15 new members. We took some DU pride to South Padre Island, Texas and Cancun, Mexico for Spring Break, partying like a Lehigh student would.....Like A Rockstar!! And now that Greek Week is almost upon us, we plan on putting the "Greek" back in Greek Week.

In summary, this year at DU we only really did five things. We studied, we partied, we played our football, we brought home a championship, and we showed The Hill what brotherhood is all about, not necessarily in that order. Good Luck to all our seniors and welcome to our new members, YOU MADE THE RIGHT CHOICE!!!

THETA

After four years filled with good times and bad times, the senior class of 1999 would like to say GOODBYE. As we leave, there is no doubt in our minds that we go away a little wiser, a bit more destructive, and take with us some of the BEST "ruit" skills this house has ever seen. But...before our time ends, we would like to say a few words to the six (oh wait seven -sorry Leo) seniors graduating in May of 1999.

Scotty: Just lose it big guy, and we're not talking about the pounds, buy some pants, no anger management...a Pittsburgh norm, WWF & Titanic...sweet life.

Smith: Quit laughing you geek and get a real haircut Omish Boy, you are undoubtedly doomed to a life of debits & credits, I swear I'll hit someone, "someday", jungle fever in Syracuse, Marilyn Manson must have gotten the better genes in the family.

Killea: Knife+Lax Game+Greek Week=Several Stitches, Ejax/Hotty/Fatty K/LQ...what a shameful career! Hey guys, what's the spread, Dad can I borrow some money?, Hopefully you'll get more playing time on the club team.

Gavin: Who and where are you?, Suffered from a rare case of the Napoleon Complex, Squirrel kids...JAMMER forever!!!!

Dawkins: "Oh God Al, there's #?!@ in my bed!", Career fighting record of 2-18-1 with an astounding 18 KO's 2nd only to Killea in distinguished lax careers, A lipper, Magnum, and USA today...J-Dog's three best buddies, Crack whore and Shark Jaws...enough said.

Purdy: "Get your own damn girlfriend!", For $34, I heard that piss tastes really good with ice, In the road of life, be sure to watch out for those "speedbumps".

Leo: No future and hopefully only one more year of college, "Montclair homies are the laziest!"

Life Around Campus

No matter where you live on campus there are two things we all have in common: school work and the amazing talent of procrastination. This freshman may look like she is hard at work but one of the best procrastination techniques is when you attempt look productive.

Beginners beware, there is a hustler in our midst. There is just something about having a pool table in the dorms that makes people think that they know how to play the game. This person, from Sayre Park Village seems to be able to face up to her lack of talent when it comes to billiards.

Some of the

Life Around

Two brothers from DU take some time out of cocktails to show off their pearly whites for the camera.

A group of Alpha Phi's pause for a photo op at the Zetes formal. It is always a special time of year in the spring when everyone gets to play dress up but yet still remain in the surreal land of make believe called college.

Campus

Life Around Campus

Run in the sun. Oh wait, maybe not sun, but there is still fun to be had. These girls go for the more conventional sleds but around campus many silly people can be seen sliding around on those shiny lunch trays.

Sometimes the best cure for stress is silliness. We can not take life too seriously.

These two members of the ROTC can be seen blurring the lines of reality, albeit unknowingly. Their camouflage is designed to protect them, perhaps from the uncertainties that may lie in their path.

ON THE EDGE OF REALITY

We, the seniors of Lehigh University are on the edge of an exciting journey. The destination is unknown and the paths are as different as our individual dreams and goals. Our time here was spent learning and living. Now that time has come to a close and we find ourselves looking towards a future full of possibilities. Whatever we want we will be able to achieve. Whether we have chosen advanced degrees, lucrative positions or alternative ways to spend our days, our carefree life at Lehigh will be only fond memories. It is now time to prepare ourselves for what lies ahead.... Our only limit to what we can achieve are the realities we have chosen for ourselves.

Although it may not look like it in the picture, the future is always on the mind of a Lehigh senior. We are preparing for interviews, completing applications and bracing ourselves for the reality that is about to hit us in the face. Whatever path we may choose, upon graduation from this university our lives are going to change, whether we are prepared for it or not. These boys from Delts (above), are enjoying their spring break, but never far from their minds is the edge of the rest of their life, only weeks away. Luckily they did not let this get in the way of their vacation recreation and other assorted activities.

Studious Seniors Daniel Braude and Heidi Wachs enjoy themselves at the tailgates that make Lehigh famous. Tailgates are a time to relax and forget about the stresses that the real world will provide in just a years time. While some recent graduates can always be seen, they are never able to regain the same carefree attitude. However, don't think these two are all about fun and games. It is, after all, the Senior's duty to show the underclassmen how to thoroughly enjoy the experience.

We are part of something that is named after a Biblical and Historical Landmark. Bethlehem, whatever you may think about it, is the Christmas City. There is a different feeling in the air whether you are on campus or just on the edge. It is hard to tell where the mystique starts and where the holiday begins. While driving around the adjacent neighborhoods it is easy to see that people around here take this holiday seriously. There is an annual pilgrimage to this area just to see Historic Bethlehem in all of its glory. This time of year is a visual memory that is bound to travel in our minds and be used as a measuring stick to compare all other festivities we encounter.

One of the most enjoyable activities on campus is to just sit. A sunny day on the campus is like no other. People can be seen laying out, hanging around or frolicking like children. It is a mystery how nice weather can make grumpy people happy and happy people downright perky. Frisbees start flying when the sun begins blazing. This so called disease that infects the entire university goes by many names: Senioritis, Home Sickness, Spring Fever, or the most popular "I earned this slackerness." However if we attempted to explain this phenomenon, no one would deny that it exists. This student, sitting outside of the Taylor Gymnasium, has chosen to relax by watching all of the coming and goings of the day. It has been said that if one were to sit in this spot you would see everyone on campus walk, run or drive past on any given day.

ust over the edge, this courageous soul has ventured. Even against the advice of those who have traveled before Katie Bartlett dared to go beyond the preset boundaries.

This mentality is what sets Lehigh seniors apart from the rest of the crowd. We take nothing at face value, question everything presented as fact and attempt to live our lives to the best of our ability. Katie traveled all the way to Hawaii for spring break this year and was really able to spread her wings. When given the space and resources, we have the ability to create things that can stretch the limits of our own imagination. To steal a theme from Field of Dreams, if we dream it, than it can happen. At this point in our lives we have the freedom to dream, create and captivate. Our time at Lehigh has given us all the tools required, now the world had just better beware.

When you think about it, despite all of the attention they receive, tailgates are really quite harmless. It is a time to enjoy what is left of the nice weather, get yourself reacquainted with old friends and root the Mountain Hawks to yet another victory. Elena Zilbermann and Jennifer Minelli, seen here, are probably just laughing and reminiscing. They wouldn't just be laughing at someone doing something silly in the distance. That sort of thing does not happen at tailgates. Sure there is free food and beer, but that is not why people come. Right ??

nce four years have passed, the excitement of "The Hill" has fizzled, the charm of South Bethlehem has faded, and all the entertainment that is left is a good, relaxing meal with friends. Travel is usually required in order to find the quality food chains but that is okay because Route 22 is always an adventure. These friends, with wide smiles across their faces, are reminiscing and remembering the good times. There is much to take away from the Lehigh experience but, the most treasured memories are those that were shared with the friends that we will have for the rest of our lives.

Probably the most active Senior Class Council in the history of the university, these dedicated soles worked tirelessly all year to make our memories special. Here, along with the Senior Class Gift Committee, they are seen unveiling the Lehigh '99 on the UC lawn, the first sign that graduation is approaching. From weekly senior nights, to snagging Katie Couric as our commencement speaker they were always willing to go above and beyond the call of duty.

Lehigh's peaceful environment was bound to rub off on us during our time here. Whether we are out for a stroll, taking in the sights or just sitting and enjoying the sun, we know how to relax when given the chance.

Only when you can give accurate directions around campus
are you truly prepared to graduate.

Can you get a lost sole from here to there without getting them lost ?

Do you pass the test ?

Graduation

What does it mean that we have reached graduation? Maturity? Not necessarily. Intelligence is not required. Mysteriously graduation means different things depending on who you ask. Grandparents have something to brag about, siblings have something to live up to and parents can finally stop paying those pesky tuition bills. For the graduate, it could mean a job, a new life, or perhaps a trip down a path that is not yet set.

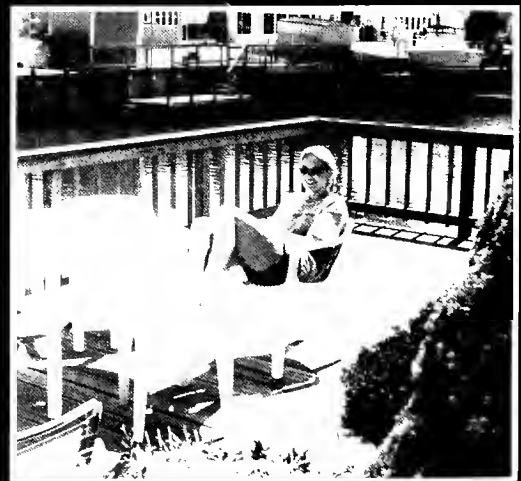

January Graduation

Senior Week

It is now time to leave,
There is no need to grieve.
Our time here has come to an end,
But we all leave the best of friends.
Where our lives may take us,
we may not know.
But where we came from we will be proud to show.

GRADuation

Lehigh has been a place to learn and live.
Now it will be memory that continues to give.
Through all the frustration, we have learned the value of hard work and dedication.
This is not a time to cry, but yet how surreal it is to say goodbye.

Graduation

Hugs and Kisses, Best Wishes.

We are on our way, because we must go, we've had our day.

Wherever we go and whatever we do will be fine, because we graduated from Lehigh in the class of '99.

1. get questioned by a brownie
2. hear the bell ring at Fair-Mart
3. do the crawl

ON THE EDGE

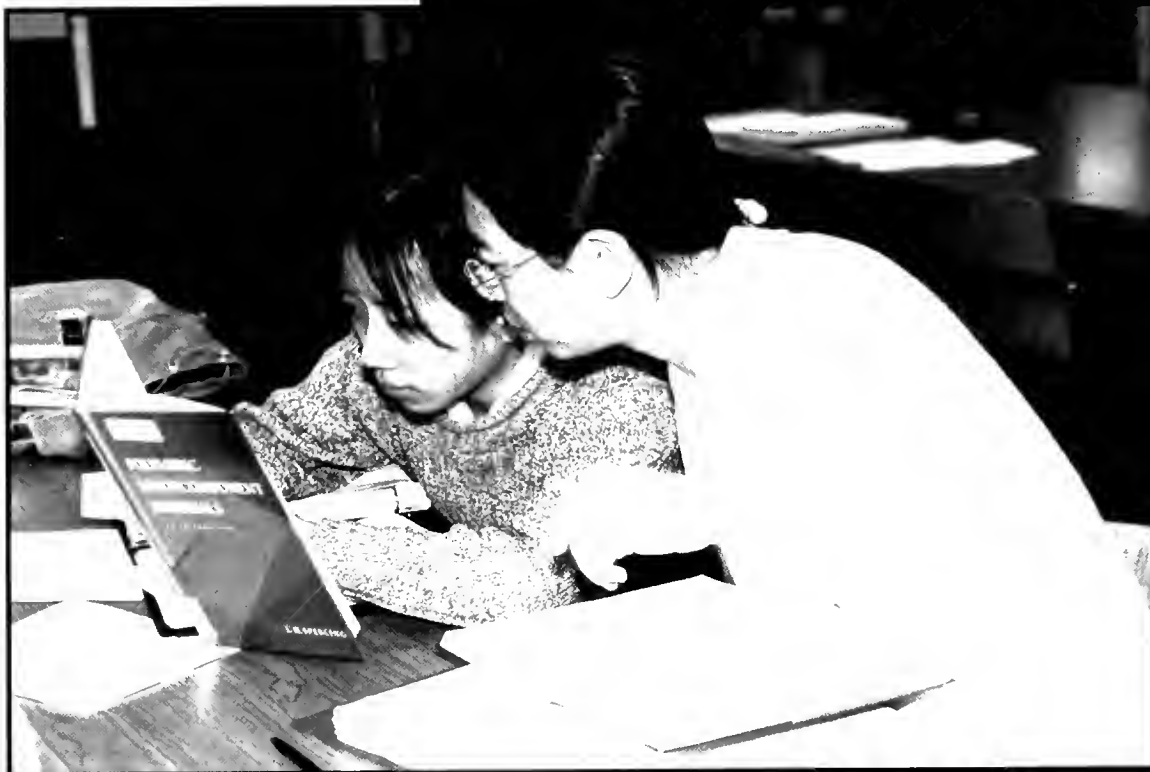

Memories - Achievement - Possibilities - Activity
Victory - Friendship - Reality

The story has come to a close and it is now time to venture beyond the edge. The pictures and words placed within the covers of this book tell how we, as the Lehigh University community, are truly on the edge. With every event that occurs, memories form within our hearts. Our academic standards foster the highest achievement possible. For undergraduates, the possibilities are endless. There is never a dull moment for the hundreds of organizations who create constant activity. Our athletic teams work hard to achieve victory every step of the way. Living along the diverse pathways of campus allows us to create life-long friendships. Finally, the graduates, who are leaving the comforts of a place they have called home for four years, are stepping over the edge to a place known as reality. Together, as we embrace change and sit on the edge of a new era, these pages hold the priceless memories from the ones we are about to leave behind.

CLOSING

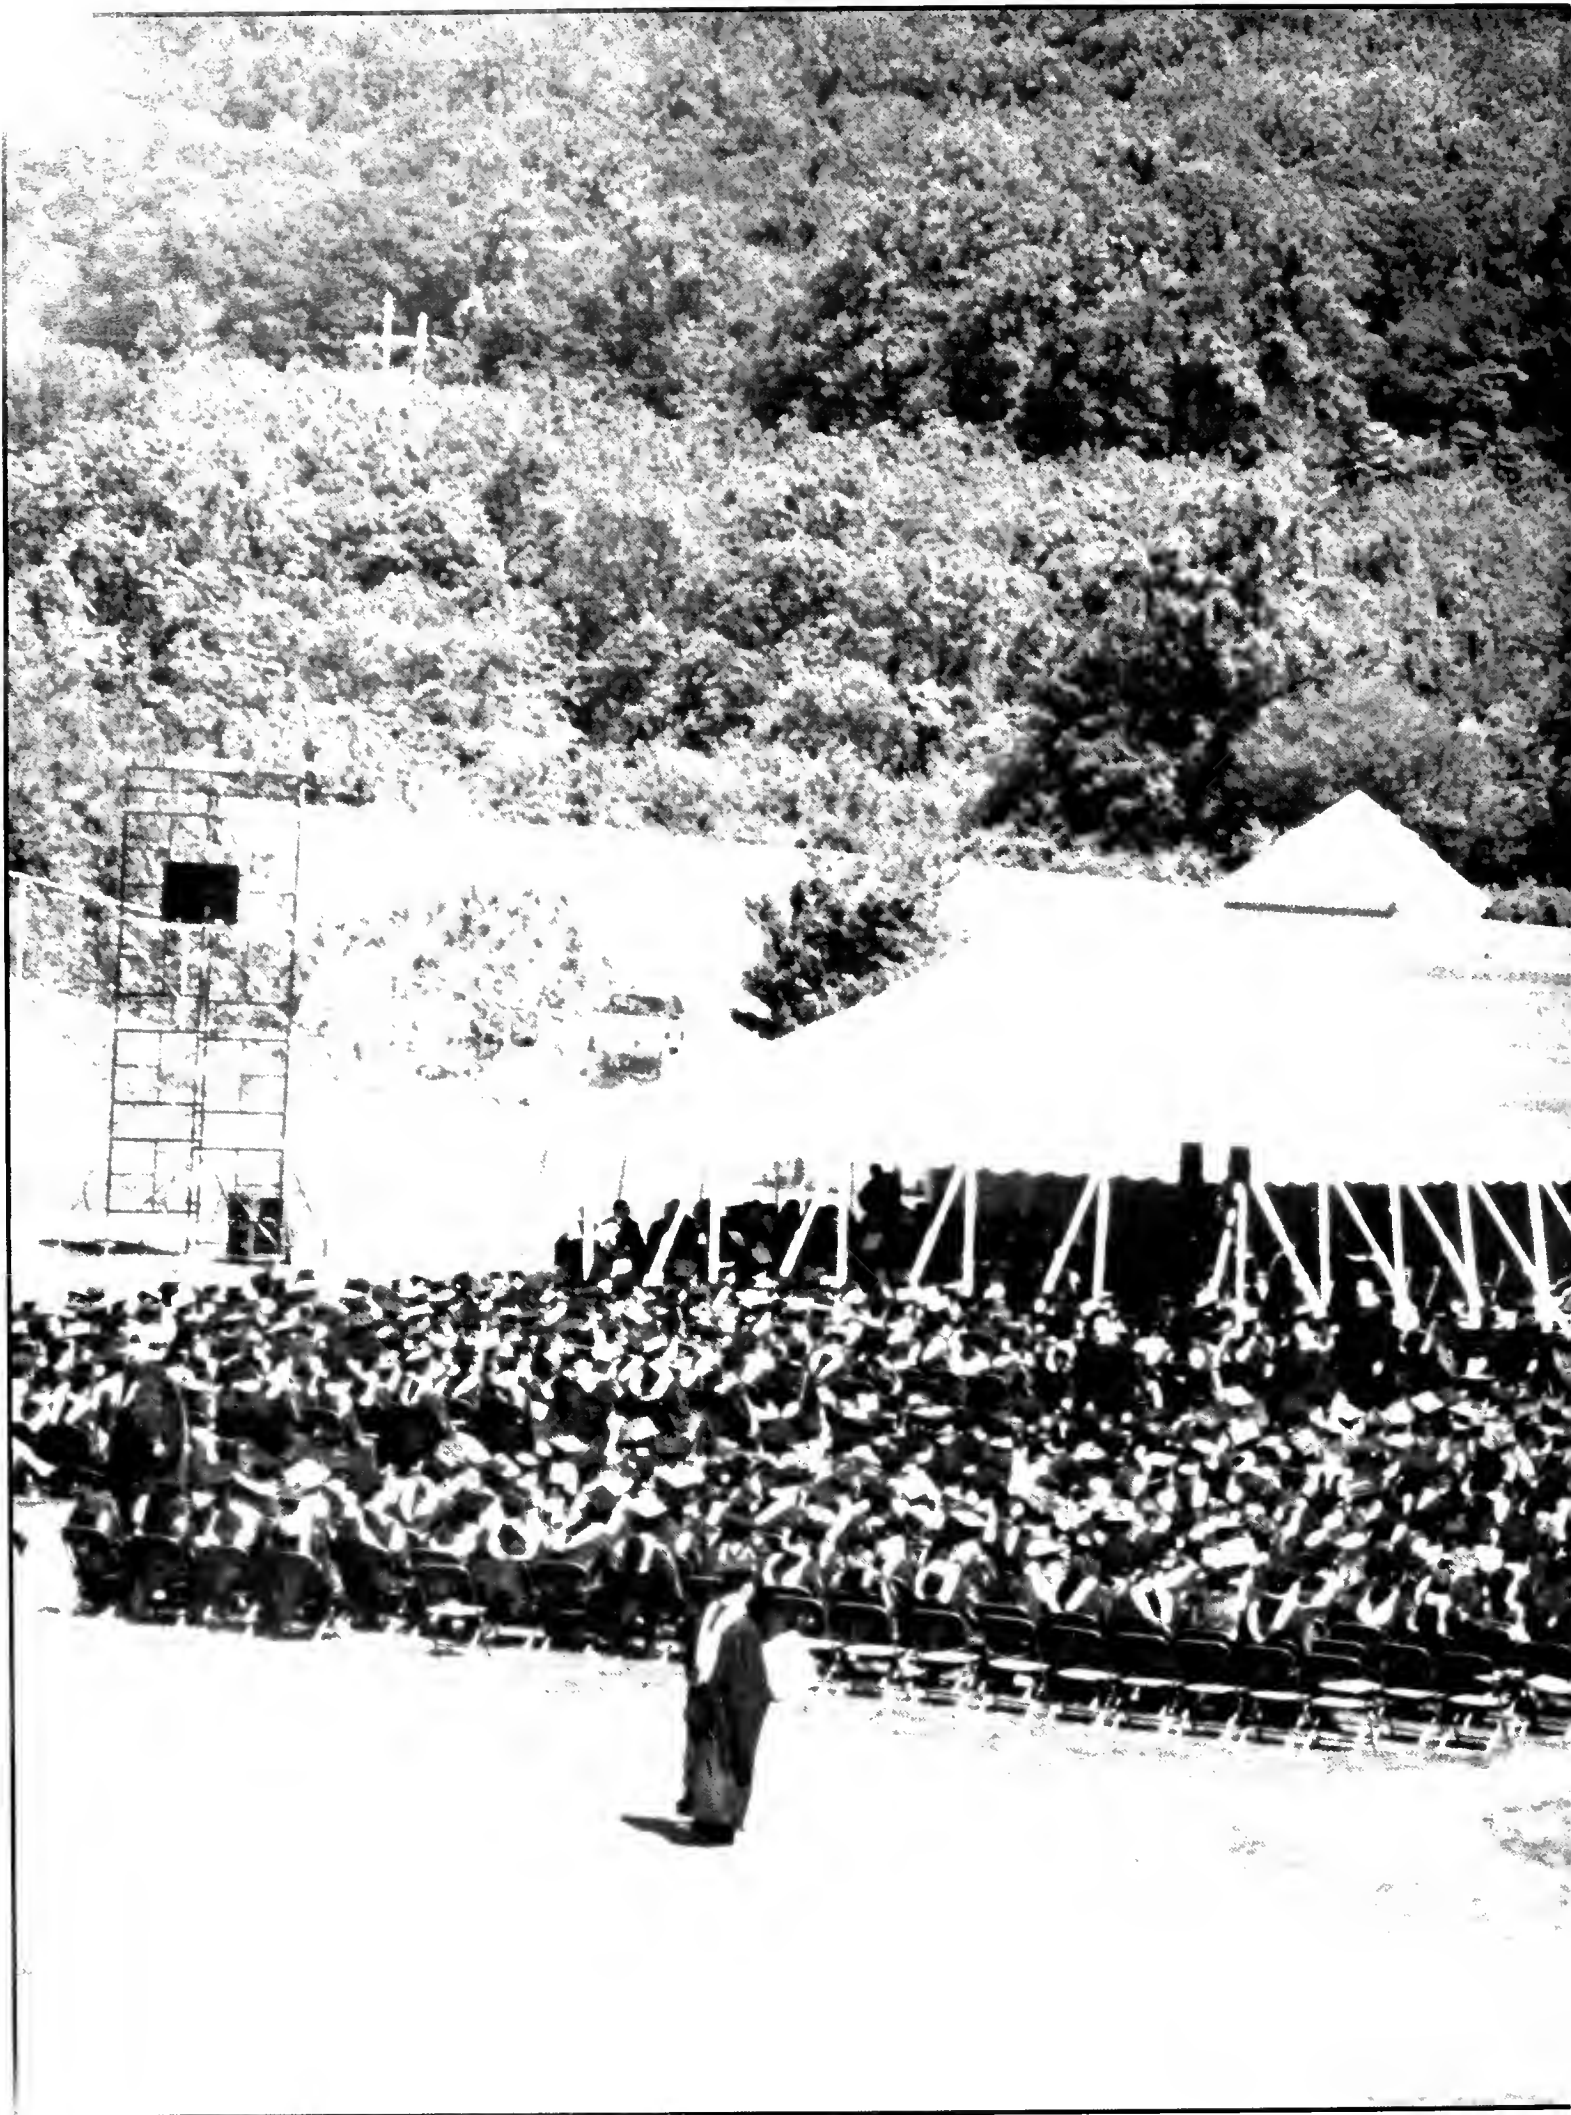

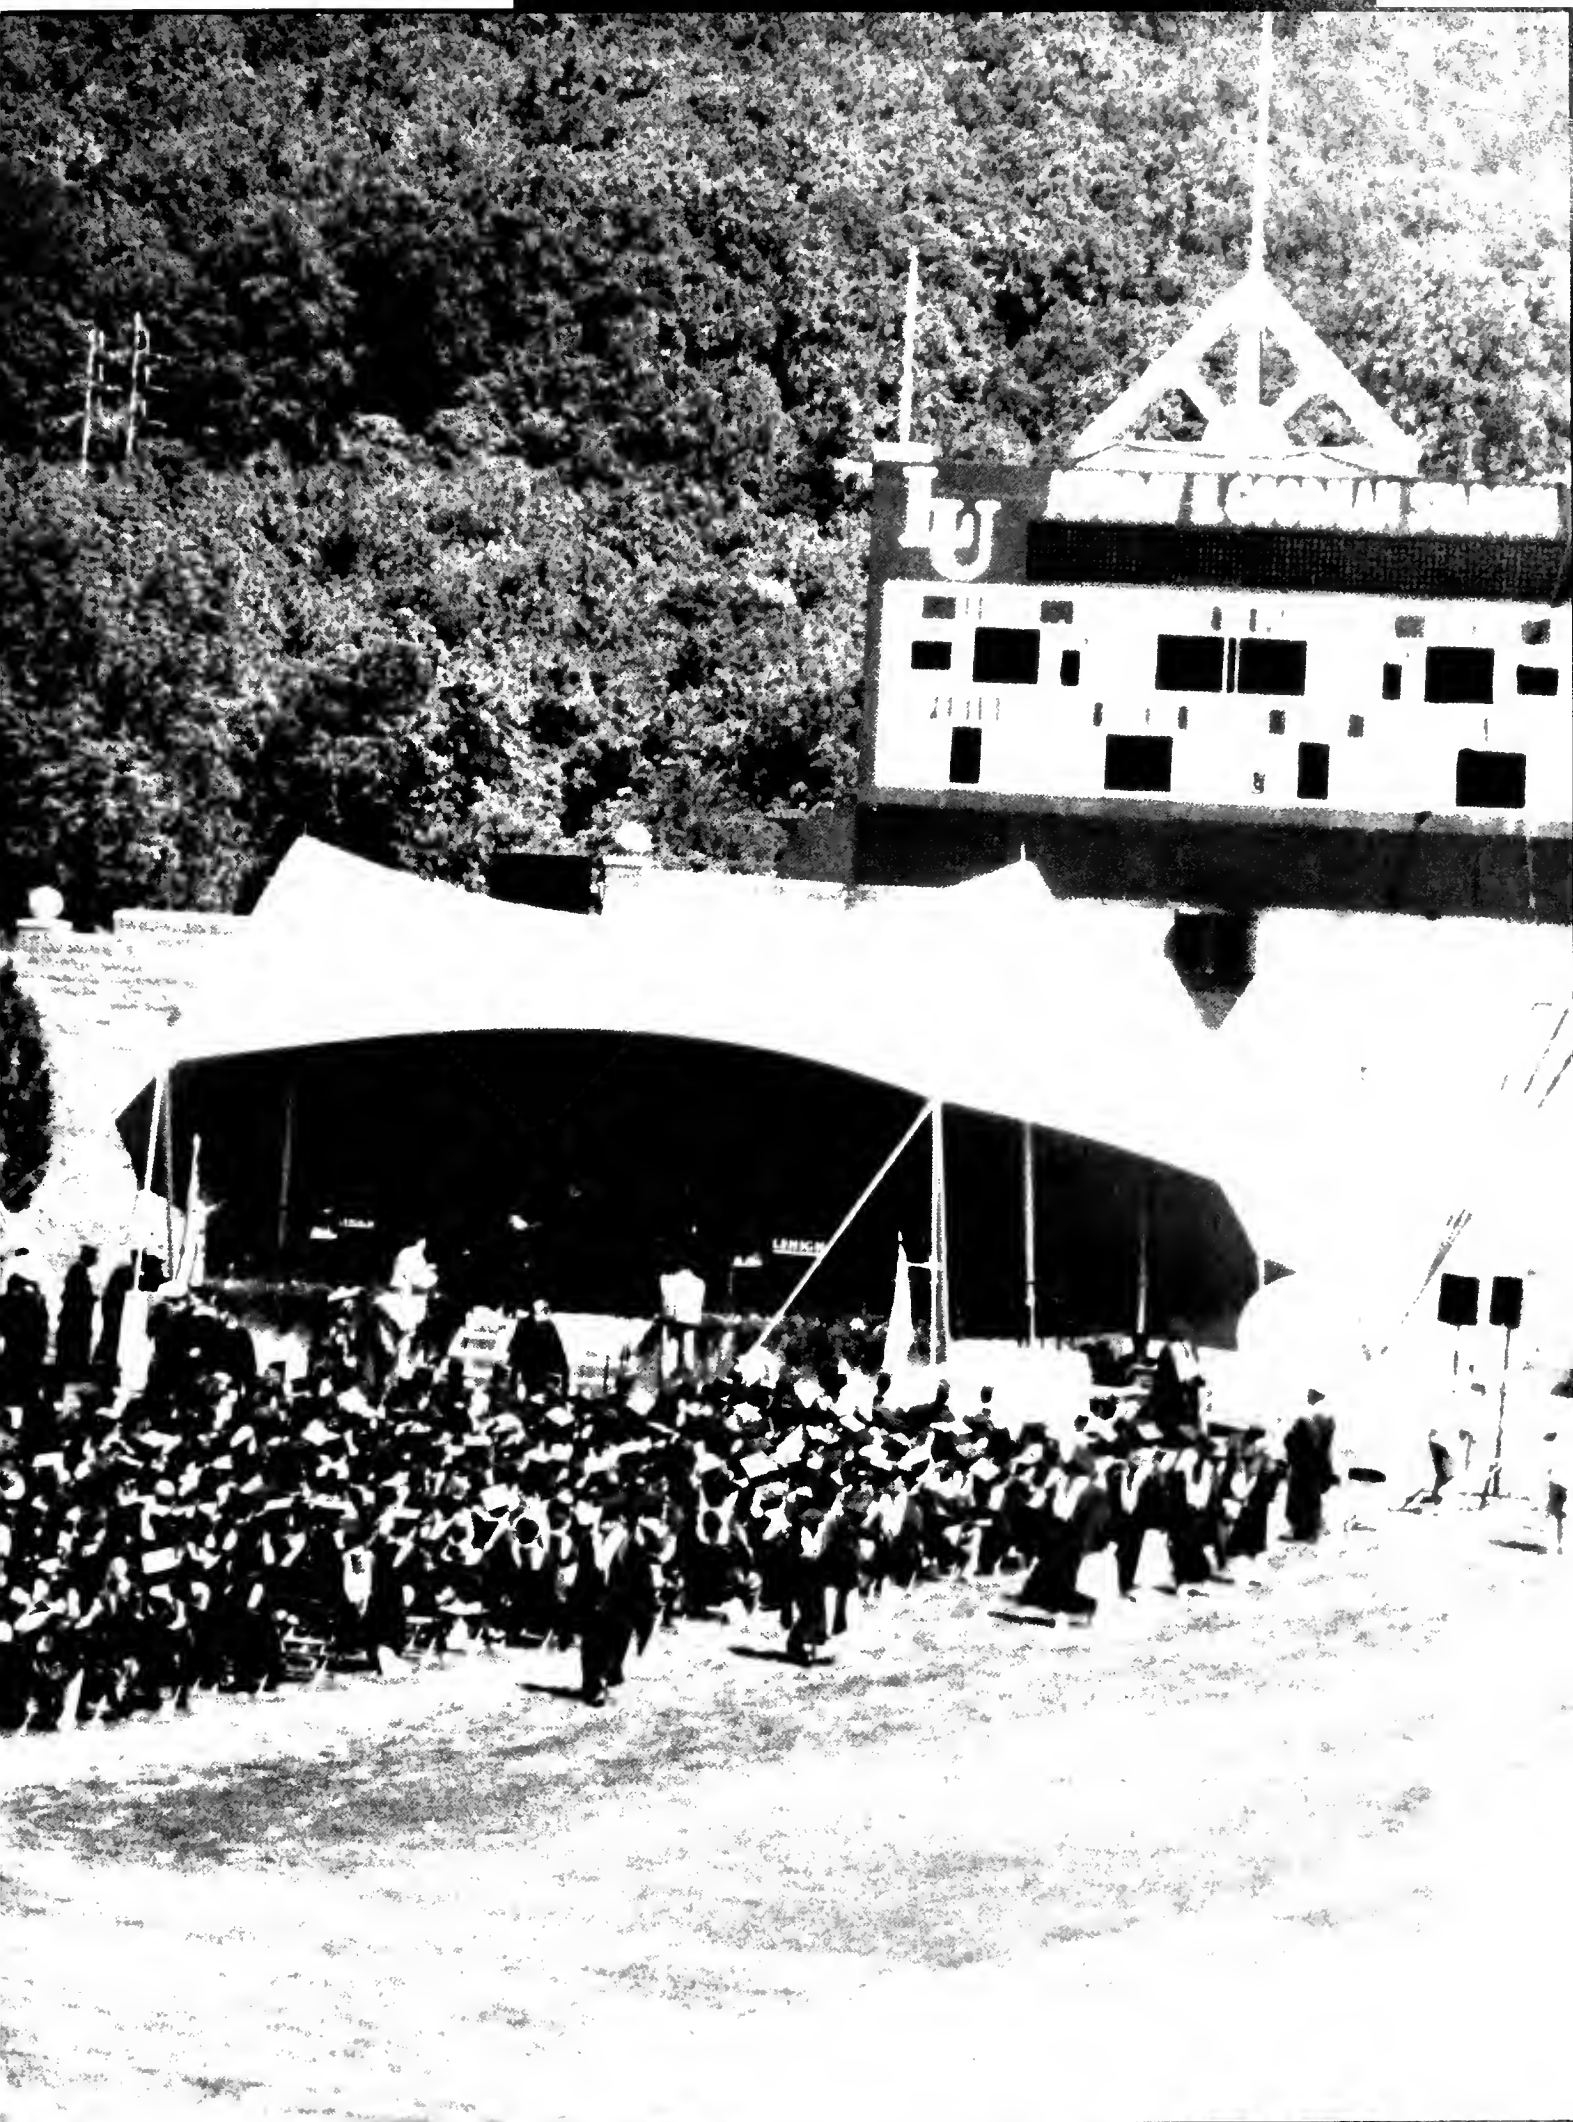

All of our experiences at Lehigh have been unique. It is these experiences that have allowed us to develop as individuals. Each of us possesses a strong work ethic, knows the meaning of true friendship, and will always be a part of the Lehigh family, no matter where the road may lead.

As the members of the Class of 1999, we have set standards at Lehigh which the others who follow will strive to meet. Through our active campus-wide participation, Lehigh has become a diverse community, not just a place of classroom education. We have torn down barriers within our community and have created a foundation to be built upon in the next century. Events such as the opening of the Zoellner Arts Center have shown the many faces of Lehigh that were once hidden among the ivy on the aging buildings. As a class, we are bringing this millenium to a close for the university. We have helped to develop the resources Lehigh will need to excel in the years that lie ahead. We leave challenging the administration, faculty and staff, and the classes who follow, to continue to build upon our successes and, most importantly, to never accept "No" for an answer.

*B*e like the bird, who Halting in his flight
On his limb too slight Feels it give way beneath him
Yet sings
Knowing he hath wings.

- Victor Hugo

EPITOME

1999

Being on the edge of commitment can only be defined through the countless hours each of the 1999 editors and staff members put into making this book such a success.

Who says you can not be creative in the dark, cold and gloomy basement of the 'HIG! The journey began in late August with a trip to the Josten's Plant in State College, PA. The "On The Edge" theme came after a creative day and a wonderful evening of fine dining and great conversation. It came from feelings expressing the fact that as seniors, we are on the edge of leaving something familiar and venturing into something unknown (the "real world"). As the Class of 1999, we are the last class of the millennium to leave our mark on South Mountain. And as a whole, our university is truly on the edge of preparing to enter the next century. And from all of that, and so much more, the book began to grow, developed a character of its own, and now sits as a timepiece for all to admire for years to come. ~ MJ

Special Thanks -

To all the section editors, it is because of you that the book came together. It was a true team effort and a crash course in stress management!! Alisa & Ivy, Academics Co-Editors, you are to be highly commended for allowing us to finally meet a December deadline! Siri & Vicki, Organizations Co-Editors, your creativity and relentless efforts have truly helped to make the section better than ever. Kristin & Christine, Student Life Co-Editors, thanks to your eye for style and commitment, the section is something to be very proud of and truly captures the essence of life around campus. Katherine & Allison, Lifestyles Co-Editors, your sleepless nights, endless phone calls, and great attitudes truly helped to pull the largest section of the book together with ease. Your efforts truly paid off. Libby, our star photo editor, you have been through too many rolls of film to count. Your patience and dedication to the book are remarkable and we could not have done it without you. Jenn & Nick, Athletics Co-Editors, you have continued the standard of excellence the section always demands through hard work and great computer knowledge! Melissa, Associate Editor, it is because of your incredible knowledge and eye for layouts that we have been able to pull all the sections together. Andrew, Managing Editor, due to your relentless efforts and your ability to drop everything else and finish numerous sections we were able to meet deadlines. Good luck next year!! Amy, Graduate Section Editor, words can not describe what you have done for the book. Thank you for your hard work, endless creativity, attention to detail, willingness to do just about anything (minus recropping photos!!) and everything else. It has been an adventure. It was through endless hours of computer hating, cheesy TV shows, ice cream, cleaning and so much more that we did it!

To Phil Klein, our Josten's Rep for his years of service and attention to every last detail. To Mark Hutt, our Davor Rep, for an outstanding first year of working together. Thanks for the outstanding service and unmatched quality. To George Baker, Christmas City Studios, for his continued excellence in the undergraduate section. And to the countless others who have helped bring the book together!!
